CHECK SENATE MOVE

PROGRESSIVES BLOCK ELECTION

WASHINGTON, Dec 10.—Progressives proved today that they hold the balance of power in the senate as well as in the house.

On three ballots for chairmanship of the powerful interstate commerce committee seven progressives held out for Senator LaFollette, their leader, and tied up the plans of the regular republicans so thoroly that adjournment was forced until tomorrow.

Administration republicans could not re-elect Senator Cummins chairman of the committee because they could not obtain a majority of the senators voting. The democrats solidly backed their candidate Senator Smith, South Carolina, and seven progressives, who could have elected a candidate by swinging their votes, held behind LaFollette.

The vote on the third ballot was: Cummins, 41: Smith, 39; LaFollette, 7. Total voting, 87. Needed to elect, 44.

When the three ballots proved conclusively that nothing could be done by further voting Senator Lodge, republican leader, put the senate into executive session to receive nominations sent up President Coolidge.

Following the executive session the senate passed a number of memorials to members of the house who died during the recess of congress and then adjourned until tomorrow.

Infant Claimed by LeRoy Reese, Sr., Listed as Son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Alberts.

LeRoy Reese, jr., whose disposal has been puzzling the juvenile authorities for several months seems to be more than ever an orphan. LeRoy Reese, sr., the alleged father of the baby who is serving a one to ten year sentence in the state reformatory for car stealing in a letter to N. T. Harmon, secretary of the parole board, what has become of his son.

The bureau of vital statistics has no record whatever of a son belonging to Mr. Reese and the infant in question is there registered as Roy Alberts whose father and mother are listed as Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Alberts. The child was born June 6 of this year. Brth Mrs. Reese and Mrs. Alberts deny motherhood of the child.

The baby first came to the attention of the authorities thru Mrs. Ralph Tuttle, 900 M street, Havelock with whom it had been left four days by a Mrs. Springer who had received the child from Mrs. Reese Mrs. Springer said the baby had been brought to her as LeRoy Reese, jr., and she supposed it to be the son of Mrs. Reese.

SHOCKER WILL BE GOOD BOY

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—The first of the trade rumors has been spiked. Urban Shocker will be a "good boy" and pitch for the St. Louis Browns next year.

Phil Ball, president of the Mound City club, and one of the most conspicuous figures at the annual baseball conference here today, stated emphatically that he would neither trade nor sell his pitching ace.

Will Be With Browns.

"Shocker will continue with the Browns," Ball said. "That is enough."

Rumors of three major trades have been pushed from base to base in the hot stove league. One of these said Shocker would wear a New York Yankee suit next year. The others had to do with Rogers Hornsby, demon slugger of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Eddie Collins, premier second baseman of baseball.

With the Shocker rumor out of the way, other trade winds continued to blow over the heads of the magnates as they went into their opening sessions.

Lee Fohl, new manager of the Boston Red Sox, was the first to announce a purchase. Fohl made public the acquisition by his club of Charles Dornkopp, Cleveland sand lot pitcher. Fohl said Dornkopp was a big right hander of whom he expected much in the coming season.

All meetings scheduled for this morning were postponed in respect to "Wild Bill" Donovan, former baseball idol, who was killed Sunday in the wreck of the Twentieth Century limited. The fireworks opened after noon when first conferences were held.

Many Present in Meetings.

Club presidents, managers, stockholders, players and all the followers of organized baseball assembled in various meetings in downtown hotels. The atmosphere was filled with sonstant buzzing as heads of rival teams met to talk over "prospects."

The puzzle of who is president of the Pacific Coast league was to be solved before an arbitration board late today. Arguments were to be heard in behalf of William McCarthy and Harry Williams, both of whom claim leadership

Jack Daubert, Cincinnati Reds first sacker, may go to St. Paul as manager, according to rumors afloat in many conferences. The Cincinnati club, it is said, will allow Daubert to go to St. Paul providing the Reds get Poole, a first baseman now with the Portland, Ore., team. The Portland club is asking $50,000 for Poole.

John B. Martin, Memphis, was reelected president of the Southern association for a term of five years at a meeting of tnat circuit. Martin's salary was increased from $7,500 to $9,000 annually. He was instructed to appoint his secretary and treasurer for the coming year.

Several big leagu eclubs, according to lobby gossip, wer edickering for the services of George Burns, star first sacker of the Boston Red Sox. Cleveland was said to have offered Wambsgnss for Burns but the Boston owners turned down this bid and went into conversations with Washington for a deal which would give Joe Judge to Boston.

Connie Mack was said to be making strong bids for Paul Strang, outfielder on the Salt Lake City club. Mack was said to have offered $50,000 and five players in exchange for Strang.

The five players Mack was willing to part with, according to the dope, are Pitcher Slim Harris, Infielder Riconde, and Outfielders Welch, Mathews and Frank.

Ty Cobb, Dteroit manager, is aftre a top notch second sacker, preferably Eddie Collins or Jimmy Dykes of the Athletics, the dopesters say.

Cobb is said to be willing to part with Bobby Veach, Ray Francis, Rip Collins and Forthergill if he can get in exchange either Collins or Dykes.

HOLD WOMAN IN $15,000 SWINDLE

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 10.—A woman known as Gladys Norman, is held by federal authorities today in connection with an alleged $15,000 swindle.

Officers are searching for the complainant, Ben Fereday of Oelwein, Ia., who disappeared after losing the money and caused the girl's arrest.

Two men, believed to be confederates of the girl, are also sought.

Fereday told federal agents he deposited $10,000 in a safety deposit vault and gave the girl the key as evidence of sincerity, when he promised to marry her. She accompanied him here from Seattle, he said.

After the deposit was made two men giving the names of W. C. Carroll and J. H. Newton, approached Fereday telling him they were federal officers. They charged him with violating the Mann act in bringing the girl here from Seattle. Fereday told them he brought her here with the intention of marrying her and gave them $5,000 to let him go.

When the girl disappeared, Fereday called in federal agents. They arrested her. Then Fereday disappeared.

JALAPA BACK TO FEDERALS

Capital of Vera Cruz Retaken From Rebels.

FIGHTING DURING NIGHT

New Outbreak Reported at San Marcos.

Neuvo Laredo, Strongly Pro de la Huerta, Put Under Martial Law When Seized by Troops Under General Garza.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 10.—Federal forces retook Jalapa, capital of Vera Cruz, captured by rebels last Saturday.

Troops loyal to President Obregon, against whom supporters of Adolfo de la Huerta rose in revolt, now are holding the city which fell to General Sanchez forces after a swift insurgent advance from the city of Vera Cruz.

Fighting continued around Jalapa during the night, according to reports reaching Mexico City.

Rebel forces skirmished with federal troops at La Barca and were compelled to retire, according to another report.

El Grafico says it is possible that Governor Lopez de Lara, of the state of Tamaulipas, has fled to the United States.

Supporters of the de la Huerta who started the revolt in Vera Cruz simultaneously with minor insurrection in several other states sruck Friday. De la Huerta issues a long proclamation, citing grievances of the Mexican people, under Obregon, while his military supporters began a race for Jalapa, the state capital.

It was believed they aimed if possible to reach Tampico and seize the rich oil fields there.

The uprising was also aimed at the candidacy of General Calles for the presidency. Calles, who had Obregon's support, immediately offered to stop his campaign and lead an army against the rebels.

The chamber of deputies granted Obregon extraordinary powers to meet the emergency.

Train service, at first in the southeast and later thruout a greater portion of the country, was disrupted by activities of the rebels, altho it was only in Vera Cruz that the rebellion appeared to have assumed serious proportions.

A new outbreak was that at San Marcos, in the state of Guerrero, where revolutionists declared they refused to recognize Obregon and the Agrarian law.

Some disturbances were reported in Chihuahua.

Neuvo Laredo seethed, with suppressed excitement today, under rule of federalist troops placed in charge when Gen. Rinaldo Garza seized the city hall yesterday and declared martial law.

Eighty per cent of the population, known to be strongly pro-de la Huerta, are held in subjection by the drastic rule of Col. Aurelio Cavazos, placed in control of the city government by General Garza.

With the city completely in control General Garza called a public meeting in the main plaza, renounced alliance to the pro de la Huerta state government and announced he would hold the city for President Obregon.

SAYS HAD RIGHT OF WAY

George Strasheim, Alleged to Have Crashed Into Muny Truck, Is Dismissed.

A case against George Strasheim was dismissed by Judge Chappell Monday morning after a trial on a charge of reckless driving. The complaint had been filed by City Commissioner Cowgill and W. S. Rockwell, driver of a municipal coal truck. The case grew out of a collision of the coal truck with an auto driven by Mr. Strasheim last Thursday forenoon at Tenth and Q streets.

Mr. Strasheim pleaded innocence and contended that he had had the right of way on the intersection. He was going south and the coal truck was going west.

Mr. Rockwell said that he reached the intersection first. It was brought out that a street car obstructed the view of the autoists.

"One driver is just as much to blame as the other, as far as I can see," said Judge Chappell, "the supreme court holds that the man on the right has the right of way, all things being equal." A rear wheel of the truck was damaged.

ANOTHER BIG CLAIM FILED

MUNY GRADE ACTIVITY DRAWS SOME MORE FIRE.

Amanda Austin Asks Five Thousand for Alleged Damage to Her Property—Lawyer Roasts City Employes.

Amanda M. Austin has filed with the council a claim for $5,000 which amount, she says, represents damage to her property at 246 North Seventeenth. Such damage, she alleges being the direct result of grading, widening of the street and excavation work. The property in question is located at the southeast corner of Seventeenth and Q. It extends 71 feet along Seventeenth and 100 feet along Q.

Commissioner Cowgill says the property was improved. A brick wall was taken out and a cement walk substituted. The grade was lowered 1 1-2 feet and something like five trees removed.

John L. Mattox, attorney, claiming that Commissioner Wright gave no assistance in an attempt to collect a bill from a fireman, asks this pointed question:

"What I wish to know is whether or not the council favors tolerating use of the city's payroll as a refuge for people who won't pay their bills."

The bill, he says, was for coal purchased of one of the attorney's clients during the winter of 1921-22. He claims that the city employe, after reaching the credit limit, commenced using muny coal.

At Monday's meeting, Commissioner Wright and Fire Chief Hansen recommended purchase for the assistant fire chief, of a Hupmobile roadster. The bid on this car being $1,125 plus the old Dodge now in use.

FRIENDS PAY FOR DEFENSE

BOHEMIAN SOCIETY RAISED A FUND TO PAY LAWYERS.

Gossip in Seward Has It That Ten Thousand Contributed and Vajgrt Farm Will Be Sayed to Him.

Gossip in Seward has it that Adolph Vajgrt will not lose the farm he labored so long to asquire as a result of having to defend himself and his wife and daughter from a murder charge. The sokol, or Bohemian society at Crete to which he belongs, has 800 members and it is understood most of these contributed a specified sum so that a fund of $10,000 was available for his defense. He had four lawyers appearing for him, F. W. Bartos, Bohemian lawyer from Wilber, and the firm of Thomas, Vail & Stoner of Seward Mr Bartos said this was the twenty-third murder trial in which he had defended. It was Mr. Thomas' first.

Vajgrt is highly esteemed among his neighbors and friends, and these, believing him incapable of the offense charged, named a committee that secured the money and employed the necessary attorneys. He began as a hired hand soon after he arrived from Bohemia twenty-three years ago, then was a renter for fourteen years, and for the last five has owned a 120 acre farm worth about $18,000, on which he has paid all he owed except $5,000.

Seward people say that the verdict of the jury freeing the Vajgrts is satisfactory to the majority of the residents of the county. The feeling against Lana because of his betrayal of the hospitality of people who had been good to him for years, giving him free board and room, even when he was not working for them, the mother even doing his washing and mending for nothing, ran high during the trial, and a good many shared the sentiment of Attorney Bartos, when, in his argument to the jury he said that he did not care who killed Lana, that he should have been killed three years before.

The defense was bottomed on the claim that Lana's death resulted from the sequence of accidents while he and the two women were struggling, but during the argument of the case both Mr. Thomas and Mr. Bartos appealed to the unwritten law, and this is believed to have been the most potent factor with the jury. Their indignation toward Lana was visible in their stiffening in their chairs when the girl was telling her story and when the mother described her agony of shame over the revelation her daughter made her.

A great deal was made by the defense of the actions of Constable Runtey, who, they said, used third degree methods in securing confessions from Vajgrt and the daughter. Big town police would smile at the claim that what he did was the third degree. The only unimpeachable evidence was that of Mrs. Sheriff Scott, who said that she heard him swear at Vajgrt and threaten him with the sweatbox. The only other witness save the defendant was a panderer inside the cell, and his story was that Runtey cursed the man and threatened him with the ku klux klan. At the time he was outside the bars and Vajgrt inside.

It was a popular move with the crowd, which at all such trials, is ready to side against a police officer and believe the worst about him. Constable Runtey was employed by the county attorney to run down evidence, and on the stand gave a clean-cut statement of what he declared to be the facts, was intelligent, coolheaded and held his own well. Mr. Thomas had some fun with him because he took a correspondence course in detective work and also because his theory that the hole in the strawshed in which Lana hid skins taken out of season had been dug by Vajgrt as his grave fell to pieces when investigation was made. The crowd enjoyed this fun with Mr Thomas, and the only time they laughed with Runtey was when, after the constable had admitted removing certain articles from the farm.

"You didn't take farm implements, did you?"

"No," replied Runtey "I left those for you."

NAB SKINNER IN LINCOLN

POLICE ARREST A SUSPECT WANTED IN TWO CITIES.

Charged With Passing Check for $3,850 on Edgar Bank Last Saturday—Picked Up by Lincoln Officers.

Dewitt C. Skinner, thirty years old, wanted in Kansas City and in Colorado Springs where he is alleged to have induced several acquaintances to endorse checks, was taken into custody by Lincoln police at 8:45 p. m. Sunday. He will be taken to Clay Center, Neb., Monday by Sheriff John J. Harr, of Clay county. The sheriff carried a warrant charging that Skinner on December 7 forged and counterfeited a check for $3,850 on the First National Bank of Denver. A second count charges that Skinner disposed of the forged and counterfeit check. The warrant was filed on complaint of F. A. Voorhees, of the Clay county Bank at Edgar, Neb.

Mr. Skinner is alleged to have presented the check at the Edgar bank last Friday where in exchange he obtained $50 in cash and a bank draft for $3,800. Then he went to Nelson where he purchased a Ford coupe and a $250 diamond ring after cashing the draft at a Nelson bank. He says that the check was sent to him in Edgar from C. F. Bonfils, who, he says, is connected with the Denver Post and that the check was in payment for some printing presses which he had sold. He showed a letter to the Edgar banker which carried a Denver Post letter head and to which the name Bonfils was signed. A short time after Skinner left Edgar late Friday authorities there communicated with the Denver newspaper and were told that no printing presses had been sold to them by Skinner. Lincoln police were immediately notified to be on the lookout for Skinner.

Officer Miles spotted a man who answered Skinner's description driving a Ford coupe near Eighth and P streets at 8:45 p. m. Sunday. He was not able to apprehend the suspect and notified other detectives. A short time later Skinner and his car were taken into custody by Detectives Rymer and White and Officers Shively and Miles. He had $313.62 in cash, $1950 in traveler's checks and a diamond ring in his possession.

Skinner has relatives in Edgar and is somewhat well-known there. He was raised in Hebron, Neb., he says, and lived there until about years ago. He says that he was in the printing business in Chicago and two years ago shipped two printing presses to Pueblo, Col. He claims that he operated a job printing shop in Emporia, Kas. He told Captain of Detectives Anderson Monday that he sold the presses to Paul Matheson in Pueblo and that Matheson promised to send a check to cube.

Breakfast Food and Fresh Meat Are Going to The Dogs Every Day

Dog boarders at the humane society shelter are snobbish. They demand breakfast food for breakfast and most excellent follow up meals. Why not? they ask. They are paying [illegible] and such [illegible] as they [illegible] the hearts of just ordinary dogs is also satisfying.

They have breakfast food for breakfast, a specially prepared ration. They have cooked fresh meat for dinner, the more fastidious dogs call it lunch, and the evening meal consists of a most excellent stew. The stew is related to Mr. Mulligan's notorious concoction and contains some fifty seven articles.

Four cans of prepared and balanced ration goes to the dogs each day. The average meat consumption is 7 1-2 pounds of the freshest of the beef per day. TO AFFIRM DISMISSAL

NORMAL BOARD AGAIN DISCHARGES MR. EASON.

Resolution to Perfect Record for Use in Law Suit Suggested by the Attorney General.

The state normal board met Monday at the state treasurer's office prepared to again order the dismissal of Professor J. Lawrence Eason, head of the department of English in the Peru state normal school. Dan V. Stephens of Fremont, member of the board, said he believed he voiced the sentiment of the board in saying that the board does not intend to back up on the dismissal order by T. J. Majors, president of the board, and later affirmed at a meeting of the board at Fremont, October 8. He subbested that the advice of Assistant Attorney General Ayres be accepted and the board again reaffirm the action of President Majors. He asked Mr. Ayres to draft a resolution covering the legal points which the attorney general as attorney for the board desires to protect in a suit which is to be retried in the district court of Nemaha county.

A resolution affirming the dismissal of Mr. Eason was later presented to the board. The entire membership of the board present, Fred S. Berry of Wayne and Dan Morris of Kearney being absent, indicated that they would adopt it as soon as a roll call could be arranged.

Mr. Ayres told the board he believed the suit to test the right of Mr. Eason's successor to hold the position could be tried without bringing W. R. Pate, president of the normal school, into the case. He suggested filing a demurrer for Mr. Pate on the ground of misjoinder of parties. E. C. Beck and Mr. Majors will answer in court as defendants. The supreme court held that Mr. Eason was a public officer and had a right to test the dismissal ordered before his contract with the board expired. Since he challenged the right of Mr. Majors to remove him the majority of the normal board approved the action of Mr. Majors.

President George E. Martin of the Kearney normal school told the board the fees charged students in teachers colleges is very low and that a general increase was greatly to be desired. He said the fees in the chemistry department are lower than those in other institutions. He asked for the usual $110 for new music for the band and orchestra and $150 for the senior year book for distribution for advertising.

President Conn of the Wayne normal reported that poor workmanship in the original construction and carelessness on the part of the architect made the relaying of a floor in the gymnasium at an expense of $600. James Craddock of Omaha was the architect in charge of the original laying of the floor.

President Elliott of the Chadron normal reported that Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cook of Agate would give a series of lectures on geology in the Chadron normal.

President Pate of Peru reported the award of a contract to Korsmeyer Co. of Lincoln for light fixtures in the normal auditorium, the bid being $684.57. Five bids were received.

The attendance at the Peru normal December 1 was 756. This included 81 local high school and 144 grade pupils who attend the training school.

"DEAR BUFF" IS DIVORCED

PASSIONATE LOVE NOTES IMPLICATE LINCOLN MAN.

Charles R. Buffam Failed to Light the Furnace—Wife Finds Letters He Intended to Burn.

Passionate love notes telling of past escapades and intimating that future advances would not be frowned upon, featured in the evidence given by Mrs. Etta Z. Buffum in a divorce hearing Monday morning in which she sought to establish the infidelity of Charles R. Buffum, her husband.

These notes, signed "Piggley Wiggley" were found in the firebox of the furnace at the Buffum home. Mr. Buffum evidently had sought to dispose of them but neglected to notice the condition of the fire.

Mrs. Anna Moore, sister of Mrs. Buffum, took the stand and told of having seen Mr. Buffum in an Omaha dance hall in company with a "little bobbed hair blond" whom he subsequently escourted from the hall.

Excerpts from the letter which in some places were unprintable which formed the major part of the evidence, are as follows:

CONWAY, Ia., Sept. 12, 1923.—My Dearest Bu¼: At last your letter came rolling in ...I received the book and also the candy. Dearest Bu¼ if you were here or I there I'g give you a real big hug and kiss ..For Bu¼ can't I be your sweetheart? Or don't you want me?.... Buff darling do you really love me? and if you had your divorce would you marry me?....Thanks for your invitation to Omaha....I am sending a htousand kisses in this letter and tons of love,

God bless you and keep you well, Darling of My Heart. Yours until eternity.

PIGGLEY WIGGLEY.

The second of the "furnace letters" was mailed from Shendoah, Iowa and was dated October 1923. It runs as follows:

My Own Buff:....I am so sweet today, have eaten candy till I am about tocroak. Dardling your candy is grand8....

Maybe you think I don't think of my own dearie while I eat it and it seems to sacred to touch when I know your dear hands packed it. Are you still loving me? ....

I am going to Omaha some time in November, perhaps you can come to meet me. But darling just to visit you understand....

Buff does your wife live with you at your home?....

With Love,

PIGGLEY WIGGLET.

When Judge Morning heard this evidence and when Mr. Buffum failed to take the stand and offer a defense, he immediately granted Mrs. Buffum her divorce. Under the terms of the decree, the husband is to pay $3,000 alimony in installments of $75 a month, and is to pay the various bills including the hospital bill. The furniture in the home is to be turned over to the wife. The two children were given into the custody of the mohter.

COOLIDGE ADVISES BUDGET ADHERENCE

Calls on Congress To Reduce Taxes and Stay Within The Limitations.

MUST HEW TO THE LINE

Budget Provides for $3,298,080,444 Expenses.

PUBLIC INTEREST IS LARGEST

Estimate for Veterans Bureau Is $349,065,000 With War, Interior and Navy Departments Next on List.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—President Coolidge, in a special message transmitting the budget for the 1925 fiscal year, today called congress to reduce taxes at once.

He endorsed in full the Mellon program to cut taxes $323,000,000.

He opposed the soldier bonus as deadly to all hopes of tax relief and as not a "proper obligation to the veterans.

The time has come, he said, to share the benefits of governmental economies, past and in prospect, with the people, by reducing the tax burden.

Rigorous adherence by congress to budget estimates will permit immediate and continuing relief; enactment of extraordinary expenditure measures not contemplated in the budget will be defeated, Mr. Coolidge declared.

For his part, he will guarantee that executive departments responsible to him will "hew to the line," he told congress.

The budget transmitted by Mr. Coolidge provided for government expenditures of $3,298,080,444 during the 1925 fiscal year, $266,957,644 less than during the current year and the lowest yearly expenditure of the government since before the war.

Specifically, the executive asked for appropriations of $3,018,069,946, the difference between appropriations and expenditures being due to the fact that congress makes some appropriations which carry over from year to year.

A surplus of $395,681,634 in the government's financial operations for the next fiscal year was estimated, as compared with an estimated surplus of $329,639,624 this year and an actual surplus of $309,657,460 in the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1923.

These figures, Mr. Coolidge told congress, "certainly justify the view that we can stand a reduction in our ordinary receipts and still achieve a balanced budget."

Total Receipts.

The total receipts of the government during the next fiscal year were estimated at $3,693,762,078, as compared with $3,894,577,712 during the current year, a decrease of $201,000,000. These estimates are based on profit taxes and include a back tax collection of approximately $250,000,000.

Outstanding among the estimates for appropriations for the fiscal year 1925 was the item of interest on the public debt, amounting to $890,000,000; Second only to this was the estimate for the veterans bureau of $349,065,000.

Next in size were the appropriations asked for the war and interior departments, respectively $336,441,092 and $299,312,600. The navy estimate stood fifth at $278,499,054.

With the exception of the postoffice, commerce and justice departments, which obtained increases, estimates submitted for the executive departments and independent officers were slashed far below appropriations provided them for the current fiscal year.

The veterans bureau suffered the greatest cut, its estimate being placed more than $80,000,000 below its current appropriation.

The principal appropriations asked, and notations of the approximate increase or decrease from appropriations provide for the current fiscal year follow:

Legislative establishment, $[illegible], decrease $700 [illegible]

Department of agriculture, $69,[illegible], decrease $15,000,000.

Department of commerce, $24,048,025, increase $3,000,000.

Department of the interior, $299,312,600, decrease $25,000,000.

Department of labor $5,702,565, decrease $[illegible].

Navy department $278,499,054, decrease $10,[illegible].

State department $14,984,445, decrease $415,000.

Treasury department, $148,[illegible], decrease $9,[illegible].

War department $[illegible],441,092, decrease $[illegible].

Veterans bureau, $349,065,000, decrease $82,000,000.

Shipping board $[illegible],144,000, decrease $[illegible].

Public debt retirement $[illegible]10,000,000, decrease $[illegible].

Public debt interest $[illegible], decrease $[illegible],000,000.

Time To Cut Taxes.

"I am convinced that the time has now come to extend this relief thru a substantial reduction in taxation and the fiscal program which is crystallized in the budget estimates which are herewith transmitted to the congress is based on this purpose.

"We are all familiar with the facts that the larger part of the tax burden arises not from the exactions of the federal government, but from the governmental costs of states and municipalities.

"It is therefore highly desirable that an example of determined and insistent economy be set by the federal government for the sake of its influence upon everybody which possesses the authority to levy taxes. I am firmly persuaded that if the national government will reduce its expenditures and its levies under the program which is presented to you herewith, it will have a highly salutary effect in inducing greater economies in all other departments of public taxation.

"I have in mind," he said, "that

TWO STATE OFFICERS FILE NOMINATIONS

Land Commissioner Swanson for Fourth Term and State Treasurer Robinson for Second Term.

Dan Swanson, commissioner of public lands and buildings, and Charles D. Robinson of Red Cloud, state treasurer, filed nomination papers Monday as republican candidates for renomination. Commissioner Swanson is serving his third term and Treasurer Robinson his first term. State Auditor Marsh, Attorney General Spillman and Railway Commissioner Taylor are expected to file soon, and Secretary of State Pool, democrat, will file for renomination.

In announcing his candidacy Commissioner Swanson said:

"I desire to express my many thanks to those who have supported me in the past. I believe my office has been run in the interest of efficiency and economy. The saving made by me for the administrative activities of the office will show a 35 per cent reduction in the cost of running my office over that of the former administration, while the revenues of the office have been increased for the same period more than $200,000.

"The encouragement I have received from republicans as well as democrats from all over the state is appreciated by me, and I would be ungrateful if I did not acknowledge the same. If permitted to serve again in the capacity of commissioner of public lands and buildings it will be my policy to conduct the office upon the same lines as heretofore. I am willing to stand upon my record, and upon this record I ask the support of the voters of Nebraska."

American Participation in Conference Is Hoped for in Informed Quarters—Announcement Expected.

These advices stated France and Belgium virtually have agreed to appoint experts to the inquiry under conditions that will afford the proposed conference a sufficiently wide scope to make it practicable.

As a result of this development, American participation is now hoped for in informed quarters.

Altho a high American official states the plan of the reparations commisison is not dead and that this government still is studying the proposal, the cooperation of this country in the conference is not at all assured. An announcement of the American attitude is expected soon from the state department.

MOTHERS-IN-LAW IN HOME BREAKER ROLE

Legal Aid Society, After Forty-seven Years' Experience, Finds Fathers-in-Law Comparatively Harmless.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Mothers-in-law, laugh or not, are still the best little home busters in America. Officials of the Legal Aid society, after forty-seven years of service among the poor gave this judgment today.

Fathers-in-law, according to officials, are harmless old duffers, rarely causing marital difficulties.

The society explained:

There are three reasons for this mother-in-law complex, according to our statistics.

"First, no mother thinks any other woman's child is good enough for her own; second, a mother frequently sees in the marriage of her child the thwarting of her own plans and ambitions; third, where the boy or girl has been a wage earner, the mother dislikes sharing her accustomed income with another."

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

Elmwood had a bad fire, four business buildings and stocks burning to the ground.

Lewis Ryan wrote from Manila that nearly all the sickness at Manila was due, not to mismanagement of leaders but personal indiscretions as to diet.

Among the social affairs of the week were a large reception given by Mrs. Eli Plummer for her niece, Miss Bertie Clark; a supper after Philharmonic concert for the soloist, George Hamlin, given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eames; the installation of Nebraska chapter of Delta Upsilon at Thompson's hall.

The smallpox at Nebraska City was so mild that the physicians did not agree that it was smallpox.

Vaudeville, which had come into existence about ten years earlier, was beginning to be very popular.

It was announced that the strange sights and wierd scenes witnessed along the streets during the night was only the initiation of three young hopefuls into Beta Theta Pi, Ernest C. Folsom, Luther Munford and Samuel Musser.

HORRORS OF WRECK TOLD

WOMAN DOCTOR ATTENDED TO THE INJURED.

Used Clothing for Bandages—Head of One Woman Almost Severed—Rain and Wind Hamper Rescue.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—The tragic picture of the Twentieth Century limited crash near Forsythe, N. Y., yesterday morning with its toll of nine dead and many injured was pieced together today by men and women who played heroic parts in the tragedy.

A woman physician, Dr. C. C Thoren, Chicago, was one of the leading figures.

"I was awakened from my sleep by a terrible crash," she said. "Immediately I knew something terrible had happened. I jumped from my berth, put on a cape and some slippers and ran out.

"It was raining and it was dark, but there was light from many lanterns. I told the people that I was a physician and told them to bring me hot water, or skirts and clothing of any sort that I could make do for bandages.

"I do not remember all the details very clearly, except that I bandaged injuries and told other passengers how to take care of some of the cases.

"I labored hard over one woman whose head was alsomt severed. I knew she could not live, but I did the best I could.

"We did not have much in the way of medical facilities. We used bed sheets and pillow cases for bandages and hot water for cleasing injuries."

William Baker, president of the Phillies baseball club said:

"The observation car was crumpled up like an accordion. I was asleep when the crash came. I was pretty badly shaken up.

"I thought a terrific explosion had occurred. Only the steel coaches saved everyone on the train from death.

Rain Hampers Work.

"I admired the train when boarding it at the Grand Central station, New York. Rain and wind hampered rescue work. I couldn't help because I am recovering from an operation.

"The saddest part of the catastrophe was the death of 'Wild Bill' Donovan. He was a former star of my team."

Homer Lane, a porter on the train, told of the labors of the train crews to cut the imprisoned passengers loose from the debris.

"We could see one man under a bunch of steel end he was moaning and crying," Lane said. "We worked about fifteen minutes before one of the men could get down to him. We had to chop a hole to get one of our boys thru. He got down and wrapped the man in a blanket and handed him up to us."

John J. Manfred, New York real estate man, was praised today by survivors for his heroic labors. Manfred was one of the first to reach the splintered combination observation and sleeping car.

"I heard cries of pain and moans as I ran up to the car," he said. "And then I forgot about everything except the necessity of getting the people out. I think I carried out nine persons, and five of them were dead. Some of them I had to pry out with an iron bar.

"I climbed in thru a smashed window and the sight that met my eyes had better not be described. Near the front end of the car I saw five bodies, three men and two women. I carried them out. Then I found the others; one man was jammed into a corner of his berth and I had a hard fight getting him out. Another man was held down by masses of steel.

"There was a steel beam across his neck. I did everything possible, but I just couldn't budge the bar. So I left him temporarily to get out the others who were not jammed down. Later I found this fellow had been taken out by some of the train crew. I think they had to use a derrick. I guess he was conscious all of the time because I could hear him crying and moaning."

The passengers were in a panic for a few moments after the crash, G. C. Vennard, vice president of the Armour Fertilizer works, said.

"But it lasted only a few moments. Then everybody got to work. It was very dark. There was a heavy fog and it was raining and men and women, most of them clad in night garments with only some light outer wraps, sloshed around in the mud, apparently unmindful of the rain and muck."

Cullen Cain, Philadelphia newspaper man, now publicity man for the National league, said that the injured bore their hurts stoically.

Passengers acclaimed Emma Washington, negro maid on the flyer. One of the first to reach the wrecked car, she seized an axe and smashed away at the debris.

"I just did what I thought would help," she said. "I cut away the steel from around one man. And then I was told to get some bandages so I cut up pillow cases and sheets. Then I helped carry some of the folks—I just helped, that's all."

ACCUSE AMERICA OF BLOCKING PACT

Council of League Wants Showdown With United States on Question of International Traffic in Arms.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—The council of the league of nations, which convened here today, is scheduled to come to a showdown at last with the United States on the question of the regulation or suppression of the international traffic in arms and ammunitions.

The latter is regarded by the league as one of the most important causes of war, not only in semi-civilized countries, where arms and ammunition are furnished to the natives by the big munition factories of the great powers, but even among highly civilized powers as well, where the arms manufacturers have every interest to stir up war in order to create a market for their output.

For the past two years the league has flatly charged the United States with blocking the whole international effort to put an end to this cause of war. The moment, as a result of resolutions adopted by the last league assembly, has now come, it is declared, when the United States must come to a showdown on the question or accept full responsibility for checking progress along this line towards world peace.

The action of the council which met today is expected to take the form of an unequivocal note to the United States asking for a final flatfooted statement whether or not the United States is disposed to join in a new international treaty on the subject that will replace the St. Germain treaty, whcih the United States refused to ratify.

WALT MASON

Prehistoric Man.

At Santa Barbara they found, forty cubits underground, the skull of some man now unknown, which skull was largely made of bone. And scientists, supremely wise, have viewed it with their brooding eyes, and scratched it with inspective nails, and weighed it on the city scales; its owner rambled to and fro about a million years ago. I view the ruin and I sigh. "The poor old fish—why did he die? But since his skull is twice as thick as that of any modern hick, we may assume he was a chump who lacked the sense to dodge the dump. Perhaps he drove, with nerve and gall, in his rude home-made carryall, and hogged the road and wouldn't mind the by-laws published for his kind, and hit up fourteen miles a day, where seven miles would be O. K. and then, while skidding round a curce, a tire blew out, he lost his nerve, and ditched his boat and broke his neck and perished in the twisted wreck. I look back thru a mist of tears across about a million years, and see the crowner hold his quest, and hear him say, 'Tis for the best; if bonehead drivers will get gay, and hit up fourteen miles a day, they surely furnish, when they croak, a lesson fine for other folk."

Between Friends.

Los Angeles Times Will Hays, the mogul of the movies, was talking about the difficulties of his post.

"Aside from the Arbuckle question," he said, "there is the eternal question of jealousy. Jealousy!

"I entertained two beautiful young movie stars at tea the other afternoon. Relations were strained between them, and I wanted them, for business reasons to be friends again.

"Come, make up!' I said impulsively.

"'But Thais,' said the blonde star, 'is already made up.'

"Thais, the brunette, bit her lip. Our little tea party went on. The talk turned after a while to burglars.

"'I always feel safe,' the blonde star said, 'when there's a man in the house.'

"This was Thais's chance.

"'I don't see why you shoudn't, dear,' she laughed."

TRAIN WRECK UNDER PROBE

ENGINEER OF THIRD SECTION IS BLAMED.

Nine Lives Lost and Several Injured When Two Sections of Century Limited Crash at Forsythe.

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 10.—Charles Patterson, a veteran engineer, who for twenty-five years has piloted fast trains without mishap, was the pathetic central figure today of preliminary investigation into the wreck of the Twentieth Century limited.

Early Sunday old Charlie Patterson, sitting at the throttle of a section of the "Century", shot past signal flares and a danger lantern waived by a frantic flagman and his locomotive jammed into the combination observation-compartment car of another section of the crack train, standing at a grade crossing. Nine persons died and thirty were injured. The railroad places the blame on Patterson.

Patterson, who was uninjured was taken to the headquarters of Superintendent Brogan here and made a detailed statement. He declared that he had only about a quarter of a mile in which to check his train, after he saw the first flare. There was not time enough in which to stop, he said, altho he was able to materially reduce speed so that he was not going more than twenty miles an hour when the collision occurred.

The veteran engineer was, of course, tremendously shocked and grieved at the disaster, but he stoutly insisted that he did everything possible to bring his train to a halt. The night was murky and the rails slippery, making his task the more difficult.

The engineer's story will be checked against those told by the fireman sent back from the standing section and those told by others of the train crew.

Open Hearing.

Testimony will be taken in an open hearing tomorrow under the supervision of Coroner Blood and Coroner Osgood of Chautauqua county, New York.

The bodies of the dead were brought here after they had been extricated from the car.

The unwitting causes of the wreck were William S. Stratford, O. H. Harney and George B. Maier, all of Wilkinsburg, Pa. They were riding in a closed automobile and were on the westbound tracks at Forsythe, N. Y., known as "Deadman's crossing" when their engine went dead. Stratford heard the roar of an approaching train. He yelled a warning to the two others and they leaped out just in time to escape the smash.

The engineer brought the train to a standstill within half a mile and backed up to investigate, believing that the occupants of the automobile had been killed. A flagman was sent back to stop the following section of the limited.

Thundering thru the fog and rain close behind, Engineer Patterson saw the "flare" warning but too late to stop his heavy train.

Eye-Witness Account.

An eyewitness, Malcolm Near, who is proprietor of the village garage at Forsythe, said:

"For a minute—it seemed a million years—there was absolute silence. Only the fog and rain and the men standing around. Then, my God, it was awful, screams, shrieks, man crying out in agony—I tell you it was too awful.

"I ran over as quickly as I could. So did the rest. I think, tho, that I led the way. We didn't know what to do first."

Those who were killed were all in the rear car. The two cars ahead were knocked off the tracks, but their occupants were only shaken. Those in the forward part of the train felt the jar, but that was all. The locomotive crumpled up the observation end of the rear car and cut into the compartments, killing the passengers in their berths.

In order to extricate the victims, it was necessary for volunteers to go in thru a gaping hole in the roof, disentangle the bodies from the wreckage and hoist their remains out thru the gap.

The list of dead and injured, as given out by the New York Central authorities, follows:

Killed

SURGERY MAY SAVE DIPHTHERIA VICTIMS

Compelled to breathe thru tubes inserted in their throats, or passed thru holes under their chins, thirty-one little diptheria-croup victims at Willard-Parker hospital in New York city are buoyed up by hope that a surgical operation performed upon little Becky Chiger, thirteen, may prove successful. The child has been bedridden in a hospital for eleven years, but she smiles as she sees new hope.

A Modern Ananias.

Talcott stalked into Eve's studio, rmeoved his overcoat, took out a paper and began to read. Eve was so engrossed with a sketch of a ballet girl that she did not notice him for a few moments. Then she felt the penetrating gaze of two steel-gray eyes and looked up to find Talcott peering at her from over the top of his paper.

"I thought you were going out of town for six months!"

"Where did you hear that?" he asked.

"Bessie." Eve was busy with her sketch again and her short, staccato accent on her cousin's name meant, "Please don't bother me again. I really must get on with this."

Did you think I meant I was going out of town when I told your silly little flapper cousin that?"

"My cousin is not silly and she is not a flapper. She is just a modern girl who says exactly what she thinks!"

"I wonder if you know just what she thinks about you?"

Eve laid down her sketching pen and narrowed her eyes. "What does she think about us?"

"She thinks you'd be better off married. She thinks a career without a husband isn't worth the game. She thinks that you and I ought to get married and mother and father Billy junior!"

"So that is why you were going out of town for six months?"

"No, that isn't all that Bessie Winthrop thinks. When I told her you and I were both confirmed bachelors and had no thought of marriage she invited me to her party."

Eve threw back her head and laughed. "And you hadn't the moral courage to tell her you wouldn't go?"

Talcott lighted a cigaret. "I wouldn't put it that way. Your cousin's a cute kid. I didn't want to hurt her feelings."

"I thought you called her a silly little flapper just a few moments ago."

"I did."

"And still you think she's cute?"

"Clever as a box of monkeys."

Eve picked up her pen again and gave the ballet girl an extra quarter of an inch on her heel. She was about to toss a bit of sarcasm over her shoulder when the door opened and Bessie rushed into the room.

"So you're here and you didn't go out of town!" cried Bessie. "Oh, Mr. Talcott you've simply got to come to my party now!"

NEW RHODES MAN HAS HIGH GRADING

Sheldon Tefft, Winner of Oxford Award, Has Been Leader in Law Class and Has Won Honors in Debating.

Sheldon Tefft, '22, law '24, University of Nebraska, who has been awarded the Rhodes scholarship from Nebraska, was the leading scholar in the law class last year with a standing of about 96. He won election to Phi Beta Kappa in 1922 on a standing of 93.7. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and of Phi Delta Phi, law fraternity.

Mr. Tefft is the fourth intercollegiate debater to win the Nebraska Rhodes scholarship. Three of the first four appointed from the university were debate-team members, S. M. Rinaker, ex-'09, of Beatrice, now a lawyer in Chicago; Horace B. English, ex-'13, Lincoln, now head of the department of psychology, Antioch college, Ohio, and Paul F. Good, '13, (Amherst), ex-law '16, Lincoln attorney.

Mr. Tefft was chosen by the faculty to represent Nebraska in the debates with Iowa in 1921 and 1922, and with South Dakota in 1923. Because of his analytical power and accurate scholarship he has been Prof. M. M. Fogg's chief assistant for two years in English 9, the course in argumentative composition. Before coming to the university in 1918, he represented the Weeping Water high school in the Nebraska high school debate league.

Commenting on the selection, Paul F Good, secretary of the Nebraska committee states: "The competition this year is distinctly encouraging since the candidates were far above the usual level of scholarship. They showed a very high degree of intellectual ability and achievement combined with personality and charatcer which could hardly be excelled. Mr. Tefft has a scholastic record that I have hardly ever seen equalled, altho I have participated in the selection of seven Rhodes scholars, involving nearly one hundred candidates."

"Mr. Tefft is one of the very finest combinations of mentality and character that I've known at the university. He is a real, honest-to-goodness, representative Nebraskan of the university," stated Professor Fogg, in speaking of the appointment at the meeting of English 9 this morning.

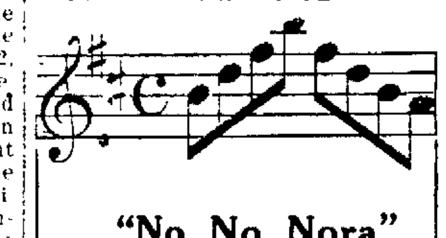

Prof. J. A. Rice of the department of ancient languages, a member of the appointment committee, who has also served on the Rhodes committees in Kansas, Colorado and South Dakota, says, "It was the strongest group of candidates I have seen in the four years I have been on the committee."

BUREAU PROVIDES SPECIAL FORECASTS

Bee Keepers, Orchardists, Cranberry Planters, Harvesters, Contactors, Aviators Served by Weather Men.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Like the moles which perform prodigious labors out of sight of men, leaving a single obvious track to mark their presence and passing, the weathermen do much more than merely provide forecasts which appear in the newspapers every day.

They make special forecasts for pigeon fanciers who want to stage homing flights, for bee keepers, orchardists, cranberry planters, harvesters, concrete contractors, live stock raisers, aviators, water power projects and a veritable host of individuals and industries to which the weather is a dollars and cents matter.

At five district offices, where these special forecasts are made two-thirds of all the forecasters work is in making these special predictions. The other third is devoted to the ordinary weather forecasts for the man in the street.

Slow to Complain

Curiously enough the persons to whom accurate weather prediction is most vital are most tolerant of the weatherman's mistakes. If some weather change of which they have not been warned unexpectedly swoops down on them and causes them heavy financial loss, they are slow to complain. They know the weathermen are doing their best and are the most liberal in their attitude toward them. It is the man in the street, whose maximum discomfort in an unexpected storm is a pair of wet shoes, who is most critical, the weathermen say.

Another of the tasks pursued by the bureau in quiet is the analytical study of the devasting tropical hurricanes which sweep out of the West Indies to destroy shipping wherever it lies in their paths, either in the Gulf of Mexico or off the Atlantic seaboard.

Patiently, year after year, one or another of the forecasters in his "off months," assembles the data supplied by ship masters who were in the neighborhood of the gigantic "twisters" of the seas when they swept by. Sometimes this data is months in reaching the weather bureau, but when it does come, the mariner's observations are plotted on a chart and another bit of life history of a particular hurricane is reduced to print.

When full data is received the antics of the cyclone are patiently mapped and studied so that mankind may some time master them.

Book About Hurricanes

Next year a book about these tropical hurricanes will be published by the bureau, the first of its kind for ten years.

It covers every hurricane that has swept the North Atlantic in the past thirty-six years. Their origins are traced from as far east as the African coast and their endings as far north as Scotland. Mariners await with particular interest this particular fruit of the work of one of the bureau's "moles."

Other tasks of the weathermen are connected with series of international observations, which are centralized from time to time and generalizations drawn from them for scientific purposes.

Studies in adapting radio to the science of weather prediction and to the dissemination of forecasts is also being pursued. The bureau now uses radio in several ways; for instance, it receives from ships valuable observations that permit determination of atmospheric conditions that otherwise would escape notice, particularly hurricanes, and it disseminates forecasts by radio for shipping and farmers. Studies are now being made to determine if radio can be adapted to the gathering and dissemination of the meteorological data from the hundreds of observing stations thruout the country.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Dear Mary Gordon: or to "Another Mary"—Please do not do the way you mention. Tell your mother all (unless she is old and feeble) and then go away, and above all let the man pay the expenses. Why should you? This is mistaken pride, and you may need your savings later on—for baby perhaps.

If you love him the way you do, you would not abandon his child, would you? Don't add to your misery and anguish with such a course, my dear Mary. If you love like that you are a fine woman; but if you do not tell your mother you would be tempted to leave your baby behind, don't do it. And why not tell the man. I do not see this at all. Why not have his comfort? (He probably is not a villain. Why not let him help?)

I do not think your course is a wise one. All girls get such ideas. It seems self-sacrifice (that is a woman's idea of love), but in your case it is not the thing to do, believe me!

Tell him, and have his help and ideas. If it were me I would tell my mother, not let it come out some day another way.

I wish I could help you, too. Wish I could hear what you do about it. I am so sorry for you. Yours was a great love, and every woman believes in that.—A Would-Be Friend and a Happy Mother.

N. B.—Just suppose things would go wrong, something happen to you. Would it not be terrible for your mother to find it out afterward? Again I say, tell your mother. And you will be glad you did. A double deceit does not help any. I do not agree with Mary Gordon.

A. What you suggest, would be, of course, the ideal way. Every mother longs to share her daughter's troubles. I know. If we could force people to do the right thing, to overcome their timidity and pride, to follow out the courageous role, there would be no need for such a column as this. But with human nature predominant, all any adviser can do is to make a fleeting judgment of the one who writes for help and suggest something to help that correspondent, something which is not too foreign to her nature. I believe most girls would follow the course "Another Mary" outlined, whatever others would advise.

Thank you for writing. It is a lovely letter.

Dear Mary Gordon: What color should a dark silk dress for a girl with olive skin, dark eyes and red-brown hair be?

What kind of a hat should a girl who wears glasses wear?

Can you give me a good recipe for toilet water, to be made at home?

I was very much interested in the letters in your column about the auto-knitter. I once needed money and wished to buy one, but I could not even start on the price; it was too high for me.

Oh, yes, just one question more, if you please: Does the Journal have a style-book? If so, where can I procure one? I would like it for my school work.—I. I. I.

A. A brown dress with some sort of bright, or reddish tinge, would be lovely.

Glasses should not make much difference in buying hats, except that perhaps the small, very close fitting hats might not look well with heavy tortoise shell glasses.

If you will go to the city library and ask one of the librarians she will give you a book on making toilet water.

The Journal has a style-book. If you send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I shall be glad to send you one.

Dear Mary Gordon: I have several white buffet sets and dresser scarfs which I have embroidered in colors and around which I have crocheted neat edges. Could you give me information as to where I would be able to sell these? Thanking you in advance, I am—"Needlework."

A. The Lincoln Woman's Club Exchange, 142 South Twelfth street, Lincoln, receives fancywork for sale. You will need to deposit a registration fee of $1, which entitles you to the services of the exchange for a year. Twenty per cent commission is charged for selling. You place your own price on the articles.

Gifts for the Boy Friend.

It is never permissible to give jewelry to a young man to whom you are not engaged. Cuff links, scarf pins and rings are always omitted from the conventional girl's Christmas list. Nor should she give such personal things as belts, sox or silk shirts.

If the girl is in doubt as to whether the young man will give her a gift, she should be on the safe side and merely send Christmas greetings. The exchange of cards between a man and a maid means nothing but a general good fellowship.

The smoker always is pleased with cigars, a pipe or cigarets, smoking stand, ash trays and cigaret cases. The chap alone in the city would appreciate a leather sewing kit, fitted out with thread, needles, etc. Or give him something to make his room attractive. A picture or print, a pillow for his den, an electric lamp or pair of book-ends for the library table are always good.

College boys like a box of cookies, stuffed dates, a chocolate layer cake, fudge, or divinity. If you can knit, make him a new sweater, muffler, or pair of skating gloves. If handy with your needle, silk or cretonne knick-knacks for his bureau will please him. Pin trays, cuff button boxes, collar bags, tie holders and handkerchief boxes are attractive gifts.

Books, or a year's subscription to a magazine, or an ivory book cutter, leather book holder, leather bill holder, card case and handbag offer a solution to the troublesome problem.

ASKS FOR EIGHT CRUISERS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The American navy "is so ill-balanced and so deficient in cruiser strength" that the United States "would be put at a serious disadvantage" in another major naval war, Secretary of the Navy Denby declared today in his annual report to President Coolidge. Authorization and appropriation of funds by Congress to begin construction of eight 10,000-ton cruisers was strongly urged by Denby "as a measure looking toward the ultimate provision of the fleet and equalization with other powers."

It Pays To Keep Your Credit Good

You walk into a store, purchase goods and say "Charge it, please." You may be known there, or you may not. Perhaps you may wonder at the readiness with which your request is granted. The merchant may not know you personally. But don't forget that he knows how you pay your bills—whether you are "prompt pay," fair pay," "slow pay" or undesirable." And to be "good pay" and in good standing at every store in Lincoln it is essential that you

Pay Your Bills When They Become Due

The merchants and credit managers of the retail business houses of Lincoln are bound together in a fraternal, cooperative association. They meet once a week to exchange ideas and information on the pay habits of their credit customers. It is the clearinghouse that makes your credit standing. Mr. Blank, for instance, may be worth thousands, but if he is slow in paying his bills it goes into the record.

These records are compiled in a rating book, which is issued periodically. The last book contained over 150,000 ratings on 31,000 people, taken from the ledgers of Lincoln merchants. Aside from this the central office or rating bureau has in its files the names and records of over 200,000 people. These records have been compiled since 1889, and cover all of Lancaster county and vicinity. The retailer has all this information handy and consults the book, or calls the rating bureau, before you can obtain credit. That's why you can't afford to let those bills go past the due date.

FAVORS NEW STATE JOB

GOVERNOR DESIRES HIS OWN PRIVATE ATTORNEY.

In Lieu Thereof Attorney General Should Be Appointed by Governor—No Criticism of Spillman.

Governor Bryan desires a new office created, that of attorney to the governor, or in lieu of such new office proposes executive control of appropriations for the attorney general, or power to appoint the attorney general.

His views on this subject are the outgrowth of his action in the matter of the suspension of Sheriff C. D. Quinton of Cass county, who is under indictment for failure to enforce liquor laws and for other alleged offenses. Governor Bryan consulted Attorney General Spillman thru the public press by asking six questions. The attorney general answered thru the press. To questions relating to the governor's discretionary power to remove an officer, or whether or not the indictment of an officer was sufficient to justify suspension or removal, the attorney general said the legislature in its wisdom had left that for the governor to decide, but answered all questions relating to authority of the governor to act in such cases. The attorney general failed to tell the governor what to do in matters which are entirely within the governor's own discretion or jurisdiction.

"There is a weakness in the constitution or statutes," said Governor Bryan. "I say this without reflecting upon the legal department. The constitution and statutes makes the governor responsible for enforcement of laws and gives him authority to direct the attorney general to proceed. The governor is also required to recommend a budget for the legal department. The statutes convey the impression that the relation of the governor and attorney general is that of client and counsel. Some states provide counsel for the governor. I find it necessary to act and assume the responsibility without the benefit of counsel as to whether the evidence and indictments are sufficient to justify the governor in starting an action or in maintaining an action after it is started. The legal department has already assigned an attorney to the grand jury in the Quinton case and the jurymen are of the belief the attorney general's assistant drew the indictments. The facts were in the hands of the attorney general's department and knowing this I asked if the facts were sufficient to justify action by the governor. The governor has to act in the dark. Two changes might be made to remedy this. The governor can be given control of the legal department's appropriations or the governor can be given authority to appoint the legal department."

Governor Bryan suspended Sheriff Quinton Sunday night after a conference with the sheriff and after the sheriff had asked to be relieved of duty, pending determination of indictments against him. The governor had been requested by the grand jury of Cass county to make the suspension, the sheriff had asked for it and Attorney General Spillman told him he had authority to do so if he cared to act.

The suspension by the governor actually took place at 2 o'clock Monday morning. The county board of Cass county is expected to confirm the governor's temporary appointment of E. P. Stewart of Plattsmouth.

MAP A NEW SHORE LINE FOR PLATTE

Stream Has Transferred Many Acres From One Farm to Another on the Opposite Side of the River.

FREMONT, Neb., Dec. 10.—Because of the erratic characteristics of the fickle Platte river, with a number of farmers in this vicinity being made poorer in land holdings while others gain, state surveyors from Lincoln have arrived in this vicinity to map out a new shore line. W. S. Scott, in charge of the work, is on the job mapping out the new course of the Platte.

Recently about fifty acres of land was taken from the F. D. Luman farm at North Bend. In adopting the new course over Luman's holding, the Platte was generous to E. J. Murphy, adding about the same number of acres to his farm. Altho the land is of little value at the present time, within a few years it will become fertile and its value will equal that of other famous Dodge county property.

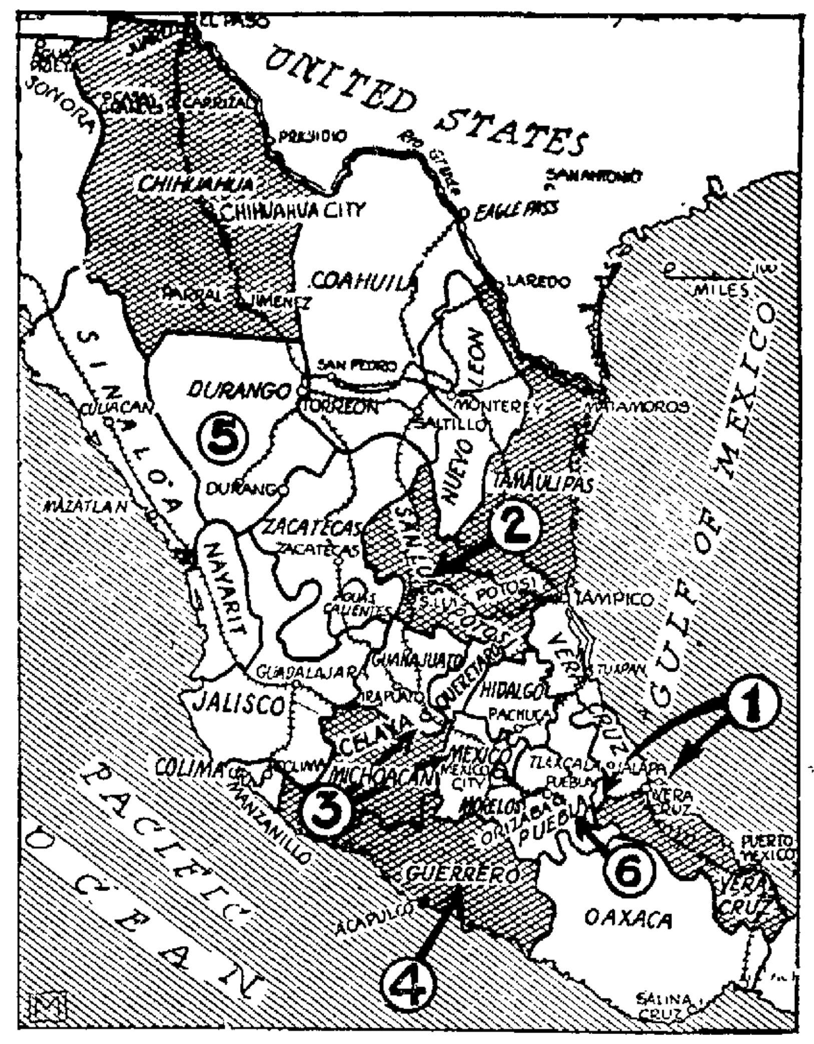

About forty acres have been wiped off the map along the north shore of the Platte between North Bend and Ames, owned by the Union Pacific. According to law, the owner of land adjoining the tract donated by the river's change in course, becomes the owner of the additional land. And in the opposite case, the owner is the loser of that much property.

The Platte has practiced its eccentricities for many years. Not long ago Weiser's Island, near North Bend, has been added to the mainland and now forms part of the shore of the river. The gradual building up of sediment served to connect the island with the main land forcing the river around. Big island, south of Fremont, is undergoing the same process at the present time. Engineers declare that a constant erosion is taking place on the south end of the island while the north end is gradually being built up. In time the island will be connected with the shore as in the case of Weiser's Island.

FIVE MEXICAN STATES IN NEW REVOLT

The Mexican states of Vera Cruz, San Luis Potosi, Chihuahua, Michoacan and Tamaulipas are in open revolt against President Obregon. Adolfo de la Huerta, cooperatista candidate for president, is the leading spirit of the revolution. He is opposed to Obregon because the latter favors General Calles for the next president instead of himself.

1. Gneral Sanchez is leading the state of Vera Cruz in revolt. Senor de la Huerta is reported to be in Vera Cruz. Communications between Vera Cruz and Mexico Cty are broken at Orizaba.
2. Prieto Laurens, governor of San Luis Potosi, is leadng the revolt n that state.
3. President Obregon, who has been at a health resort at Celaya, has returned to Mexico City, reports say.
4. General Figueroa, who first defied Obregon, is reported to be in flight pursued by federal troops. His field of operations is in the state of Guererro.
5. Juan Galindo, a bandit is being pursued by troops in the state of Durango.
6. Amerncan and Mexican authorities are cooperating to arrest train robbers who are believed to be hiding near Pueblo.

BALDWIN AT BUCKINGHAM

SUMMONED TO PALACE BY KING GEORGE.

Rumor That Premier Has Not Resigned as Yet and Will Not Until Parliament Meets.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Premier Stanley Baldwin visited the king at Buckingham palace today.

Returning from Chequers, permanent country residence set aside for British prime ministers, the man held responsible for the conservative debacle in the general election summoned his party leaders to No. 10 Downing street.

After a conference, which was to determine whether he should resign, Baldwin drove to the palace.

The best information obtainable early this afternoon was that Baldwin had not tendered his resignation to the king, but has acquainted his majesty with the conservative party's views of the situation. The Morning Post understands the summons to the palace came at Baldwin's request.

One apparently reliable report was that the prime minister intends to retain office until parliament meets.

Baldwin conferred with King George for about forty minutes.

Then he returned to Downing street and immediately sent for Sir Worthington Evans, secretary of state for war in 1921. The two were closeted for more than an hour.

"I have nothing to announce," the prime minister said upon his return from Buckingham palace.

ONE MAN DROWNED IN THE MISSOURI

Frank Williams of Council Bluffs Victim of Overturning of Barge in Which Seven Were Working in River.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 10.—Frank Williams, Council Bluffs, Ia., was drowned, and six fellow workers are suffering severly from exposure as the result of the capsizing of a barge on which the men were working in the middle of the Missouri river today. One of the rescued workmen, Lester Fitch, Council Bluffs, is in a serious condition.

Williams hung to a rope for five minutes but numbness finally forced him to loose his hold.

Four of these rescued clung to the overturned barge. The other two clung to cables and were rescued by men in row boats.

The men were engaged in building a pier for the widening of the Douglas street bridge connecting Omaha and Council Bluffs.

Those rescued were George Nelson, Lem Stack, George Thayer, Joe Knecht and John Ondracek and Fitch all of Council Bluffs.

The barge which was loaded with stone, seemed to be too heavy on one side, according to eye witnesses. As it reached the swiftest part of the current it turned over.

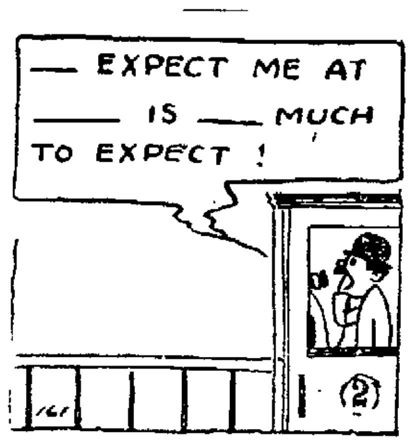

Williams had a premonition of disaster last night, according to Mrs. Williams.

He dreamed that while fishing off the barge he was in a gasoline chamber [illegible] which pulled him overboard. The dream was so vivid that he intended to stay home and not work today. He later changed his mind.

As he was waiting for a street car his little daughter ran to him and begged him to return home. A desire to buy Christmas presents for his little ones, however, induced him to go on, according to the widow.

Williams body has not yet been recovered

Just Making Sure.

Chicago News: A woman went to the orient, and returning, was caught trying to smuggle in a lot of choice silks. She had to pay duty and a fine. There was talk of a criminal action to follow.

Her son-in-law called on the customs officials.

"Is it possible," he asked, "after my mother-in-law has paid duty on the stuff and her fine, that you contemplate criminal action?"

"We are considering it," replied the customs official, gravely.

"And if my mother-in-law were to be convicted, as she probably would be, she would have to go to prison?"

"I think so."

"Do you mean to tell me you intend to do this to a woman—a woman who has already expiated her fault and recompensed the government?"

"I do. But look here, old chap, don't take this too hard. I've got to do my duty, you know. Don't feel so badly about it."

"Badly!" shouted the son-in-law. "Why, my dear sir, this is the first gleam of sunshine that has entered my home in twenty years."

But He Paid Bill.

Chicago News: Jones and his wife were always quarreling about one thing or another. One day Mrs. Jones bought a new hat and told her husband the cost, which was $15. "Heavens!" Jones exclaimed. "Fifteen dollars! Why, that's a sin!" "Never mind," was the wife's quick reply. "It will be on my own head."

Sad Case.

K. C. Star: "I know a girl," reports Joe Goldman in the Jefferson City Democrat-Tribune, "who recently was graduated from college and all she brought home was the cigarette habit. She taught this to her mother and now the son is busy trying to break the two of them of it."

BURNS HAS A NEW THOUGHT

JOINS CHORUS CLAMORING FOR MORE STREET LIGHT.

His Idea Is to Permit Users of Commercial Light to Pay for All Intersection Light Service.

Joe Burns joins the chorus clamouring for more street light. Mr. Burns is willing that users of municipal commercial service pay for street lamps to benefit the public at large. Here in brief are Joe's allegations:

"Some 2,900 k. w.'s have been added to the plant. If 1,400 k w.'s of this were sold to the public at 3 cents per k. w. as could have been, the profits from sale of the 1,400 k. w.'s would produce enough to furnish 1,500 k. w.'s free for street lighting. Now 1,500 k. w.'s will furnish current for 15,000 100-watt lamps. This current should be produced at actual cost of one cent per k. w. so that if run on an average of ten hours a night the year round, current would cost $15 an hour or $54,750 a year. The city should sell enough current at 3 cents to light the streets, giving us one of the best lighted cities in the west without cost for current to the taxpayer."

Commissioner Schroeder had not read the communication before it was referred to him at Monday's meeting. When informed of some of the contents, he shrugged his shoulders.

"Just got in another carload of poles. Under his plan, who would pay for poles, globes and other extension requirement?"

There were numerous requests for more street lights. These, presented in petition form, were referred to the department head. Among them are the following:

Twenty-one residents of the vicinity of Sixteenth and Burr streets want an arc light at that intersection as a measure of protection to life and property.

Fourteen citizens near Twenty-eighth and Center want an arc light.

Lincoln Auto club wants better lighting facilities along Sixteenth, N to O.

Some other requests before the council:

Lincoln Auto club wants Thirteenth street widened at High.

Eleven citizens and property owners want bridge across Antelope creek on Scott avenue near South street.

Four property owners serve notice that city will be held liable in event of accident on Fiftieth street, South to Sumner. Demands made upon council to have street graded and put in condition safe for traffic.

SNOW IN THE WEST.

NEW EXPERIMENT STATION

Regents Vote to Create Department for Research Within Engineering College.

An engineering experiment station will be created under the direction of the University of Nebraska college of engineering according to action taken by the board of regents at a meeting held Monday morning in Chancellor Avery's office. The rules and regulations under which the experiment station is to operate are to be approved later. It is understood that some such plan will be adopted as that followed for many years at the agricultural college in cooperation of the experiment station and college.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Harriet Braithwaite's Call Portended Some Revelation.

FOR a long time after the slam of the door which marked Dicky's turbulent exit, I sat motionless, looking into the fire I had built in the tiny grate before his home-coming. I had triumphed at every point in the battle I had waged for Leila. Bess Dean's manoeuvres to keep Alfred interested were effectively checked—Dr. Braithwaite had seen to that—and I had been the victor in the wordy battle which Dicky had begun when he reached home after his discovery that I had told Dr. Braithwaite of Bess Dean. But there was no feeling of exultation within me. Instead, I realized to the full what the old phrase, "dust and ashes," meant. I could taste both of them as I went over and over again Dicky's surprising revelation that he had been trying to put Bess Dean's true colors on canvas for Alfred's benefit.

I never thought of doubting his statement. It had too sincere a ring to be discredited, but it upset all my previous suppositions concerning Dicky's part in the affair. I knew very well that Bess Dean had no attraction for Dicky, but I had believed him to be perfectly willing to abet Alfred in what both no doubt considered to be perfectly harmless philandering. His stormy revelation of his real attitude gave me the sense of having done him a grave injustice, something, I think, which was most salutary for me.

The Bell Rings.

I do not know how long my self-reproachful mood would have lasted if it had not been terminated by a ringing of the doorbell. By both the sound and the indicator I knew that it was not the lower hall door of the building, but the upper one of the apartment whose hall and bell we were compelled to share with the Marks family. For a second or two, forgetting that I had any friends who could get into the building without ringing, I waited for Mrs. Marks to go to the door. Then, with an exclamation of annoyance at my own stupidity, I remembered that my sister-in-law, Harriet Braithwaite, had temporary quarters on the floor above me, and I rushed to the door.

Mrs. Marks's voice, raised impatiently, reached me before I opened it.

"Have a heart!" she adjured the person outside. "I ain't no lightning performer. One ring is enough. Well, what is it?"

I heard Harriet's well-bred tones, in low inquiry, and opened my door quickly to hear Mrs. Marks in voluble apology.

Mrs. Marks Apologizes.

"Oh! Gee! I'm sorry! I didn't know—you must be her sister-in-law—Oh, Mis' Graham!" she turned, and greeted my unexpected appearance with a little scream.

"I'm as nervous as a cat," she said, and, with no more words, for which I was truly thankful, she scuttled down the hall. I led the way back into the apartment with a dread of Harriet's comments upon my bizarre neighbor. No one of Dicky's feminine relatives is averse to give criticism unasked, although Harriet, to do her justice, is the least of the offenders. But she gave no sign of having seen anything unusual in Mrs. Marks's appearance or greeting.

"Edwin is asleep," she said, in explanation of her call, "and I saw Dicky go out from my window upstairs, so I knew you'd be alone."

It did not take a very keen intelligence to see that she wished to give me a confidence of some sort, and I drew a chair close beside mine.

"Haven't I the nice fire?" I asked, but she sank into the chair I gave her without answering and resuming my own seat, I waited quietly to hear what she wished of me.

THE HOME KITCHEN

Some Methods of Serving Fruits for Various Occasions

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON
The Authority on Home Cooking.

THERE is so much fruit used on all occasions and our markets in large centers are so liberally furnished with fruits of all climes, that one is eager to learn new ways of serving the different varieties. No matter how clean fruit may appear, it is always best to rinse it off in cool water before preparing to serve. All fruit is best when chilled, evenly, but not too cold to prevent its being eaten comfortably. Fruits of delicate flavors lose their flavor almost entirely if too cold, just as when they are cooled the flavor comes up, so that when they are cut or opened, they give off an appetizing bouquet.

Fruit Cocktail.

Select, for a party of six, three large, heavy grapefruits. With a very sharp, stainless steel knife cut each grapefruit in half. Very carefully remove the fruit without breaking the shells, then notch the shells and drop them into cold water until they are needed. Remove all the skin and pips from the fruit and put it into a little white strainer over a bowl to drain and chill. To the pulp, when ready, add a cupful of diced pineapple, a quarter-cupful of soft, candied cherries and two halves of diced preserved peach. Fill the shells lightly with the mixture, after draining and wiping them dry. On top of each, put a few seeded white grapes. To the drained juice of the grapefruit, add a tablespoonful of spiced syrup and a teaspoonful of ginger syrup and divide it equally between the shells. Serve at once. If the cocktails must stand a few minutes, they should be placed in little nests of cracked ice in a regular grapefruit cup or deep saucer.

Jellied Fruit Salad.

Prepare the fruit as for the cocktail, with the addition of a diced tart apple, two tablespoonfuls of minced celery leaves and a finely minced red pepper, fresh or drained out of oil. Pour a pint of boiling water onto a package of prepared lemon gelatine and stir it until it is dissolved, then let it stand until it is cold. Strain the gelatine over the fruit and turn all into a wet mould. Let the salad stand to set and to chill. When ready to serve, wipe white lettuce leaves dry, then slice or dice the jelly on them and top each portion with mayonnaise made without mustard or else with a boiled and chilled dressing.

Banana Salad.

Peel and dice four ripe yellow or red bananas, dust them with a saltspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of powdered sugar and the juice of one large lemon and one orange, and let them stand for an hour in a cool place. When they are ready for serving, wipe the inside of the salad-bowl with a cut bud of garlic, arrange the lettuce leaves, mix a half cupful of chopped celery and a half cupful of diced pineapple or a quarter cupful of canned, grated pineapple, and a minced half pepper, a tablespoonful each of taragon vinegar and oil and a cupful of lettuce cut in ribbons. Toss the salad together, then fill the lettuce-lined bowl. Let the salad stand ten minutes to flavor, and serve it with crackers spread with melted cheese.

Pineapple Rolls.

Make a good biscuit dough and roll it out, then cut it into four-inch squares. Have ready, chopped and drained pineapple, sprinkle it with a little piece of butter into each roll. Fold over the dough and pinch the ends, brush them over with a little melted butter and bake from fifteen to twenty minutes. Serve the rolls hot with a fruit sauce, a hard sauce or a liquid pudding-sauce.

Stuffed Baked Apples.

Wash and core, six tart apples. Make a stuffing of a quarter cupful of seeded raisins, a tablespoonful heaped up with chopped dates, the same of chopped figs, a teaspoonful of minced cherries, a dessertspoonful of chopped nuts, and enough honey or syrup to moisten the mass. Stuff the apples, put a piece of butter on top of each, place them in a baking-pan with a little water and honey and bake them in the usual way. The apples may be served plain and cold or they may be served with a little hard sauce or with a good butterscotch or fudge sauce.

THE WISHING-WELL -:- By Juanita Hamel

SUPPOSE there were a wishing-well where all our dreams came true! Deep in the woods where the dryads play, Cinderellas might come to whisper their wishes to the well. And a fairy whose eyes were as blue as the skies and whose smile brought more sunshine than all the maples can hide, would wave her magic wand and—SWISH! Calicoes would turn to silks and satins, pebbles to jewels glistening bright, and Prince Charming would appear! What a happy world it would be then! But the fairies say there is such a well—we need but live in our dreams.

YOUR HEALTH

The Best Things to Do for Red and Painful Eyes

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

NOBODY wants red and painful eyes. The victim of constantly inflamed and thickened lids is handicapped. There is no worse form of discomfort than painful vision and smarting eyes.

Some advertising concern makes use of this striking language: "Why envy a good complexion? Have one!"

In similar spirit I ask: Why have red and painful eyes? It is quite unnecessary in the great majority of cases.

In this article I have in mind the chronic and persistent cases of eye trouble. I do not refer to the redness and discomfort which come, for instance, from a foreign body in the eye. In such a case the disagreeable symptom will soon disappear after the removal of the offending substance.

Look your friends over and, if you have not thought of it before, you will be surprised how few of them have eyes perfectly free from congestion and blemish. The portion we call the "white of the eye" may be pink, red, or even purplish in color. The edges of the lids may be inflamed. The eyelashes may be gummed up with unsightly discharge or scales. In the corner of the eye may be bits of matter like flecks of foam.

You will observe that some of your friends always sit with their faces away from the window, or with hands shading the eyes from the lights. Some of them may have the habit of rubbing the eyes or pulling at the lids.

Ask them about their eyes and they will tell you the light hurts or that their eyes ache and smart. Reading small type is impossible or uncomfortable.

There are a number of causes for these unpleasant symptoms. The chief one is eyestrain from the need of glasses. I shall speak of this again.

Ill health, especially poor health founded on stomach or intestinal trouble, is a frequent cause for red and painful eyes. Such cases as these are likely to be associated with bad skin, especially with pimples and scaliness of the face. No permanent cure of the eye symptoms can be hoped for without removal of the fundamental trouble.

There are folks who have oily, greasy skins, or a tendency to such. This is due to an over-secretion of the sebaceous or oil glands. Such glands are abundantly supplied the edges of the lids, to provide an ample supply of oily substance to keep the lids from sticking together. If there is too much of this, it oozes out or is squeezed out and may find its way out on the eyelashes, where it dries in unsightly masses. It may dry and become so irritating to the lids that scales form and shed off like dandruff, sticking to the lashes perhaps.

In other cases, because of the need of glasses, the eyes become congested, causing the mucous glands to throw out too much secretion. This may dry on the lids and eyelashes, or churn up as foam, to be deposited in the corners of the eyes.

There can be no hope of complete relief till the proper glasses have been fitted. In the meantime, however, the unsightly appearance due to the gummed lashes and scaly lids, no matter what the cause, may be overcome by the nightly application of yellow oxide of mercury ointment. A one per cent mixture rubbed into the lashes will do wonders. In the morning wash it out with warm water and borax, using a soft cloth to remove all the gum and scales.

Good Night Stories

By Blanche Silver

Illustrated by Neva Harrison

CHATTY CHIPMUNK LEARNS A HARD LESSON.

"OH, dear," sighed Chatty Chipmunk, as he looked up at the gray sky, "here it is getting cold weather and time to lay away food for the Winter. I just wish I didn't have to store my Winter supplies away."

"If you hate that much to do it," spoke up his cousin, Fluffy Red Squirrel, "I wouldn't bother about it. Goodness: I think that's the happiest time of the year, unless it is Springtime."

"What's the happiest time of the year?" growled Chatty Chipmunk.

"Why, gathering time," replied his cousin. "I have a picnic gathering my Winter supplies and storing them in my several houses. I think it's great fun. My, I make at least a hundred trips a day to the woods after nuts and twigs."

He Peeked Out-of-Doors.

"Not I," growled Chatty Chipmunk. "No, sir. I don't care anything about laying away supplies."

"Then I wouldn't do it," laughed Fluffy Red Squirrel. "Oh, I know. Why not speak to Jimmy Woodchuck? He may be able to tell you how he does it. I heard him say——"

"Heard me say what?" laughed a happy voice, and Jimmy Woodchuck, himself, lazily walked up to Fluffy Red Squirrel's side. "What's that you're saying about me?"

"I just was telling Chatty Chipmunk that you never worried about laying away a Winter supply of food. How do you do it?"

"The only way to do it," replied Jimmy Woodchuck. "Didn't you ever notice how fat I grow every Fall? Look at me now. See how much fatter I am than I was last Spring. When the days begin to grow cool I begin to stuff myself. Why, I eat everything I can find in the green line. Then when I get all I can eat, I just go to bed and curl up and go to sleep."

"But don't you ever wake up hungry?" asked Chatty Chipmunk.

"Certainly not," replied Jimmy Woodchuck. "You won't if you eat enough. I never think about being hungry in the Winter."

Chatty Chipmunk never said another word, but he went to eating, and he ate everything he could find until he grew so fat he hardly knew himself. When the days grew cold he went into his house and curled up and went to sleep. Everything went fine until one morning he awakened. He was so hungry he couldn't get back to sleep, and at last he crawled out of his bed and peeked out-of-doors.

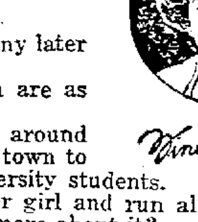

The ground was covered with snow. There was no food to be found and Chatty Chipmunk was nearly starved. The food he had eaten in the Fall wouldn't satisfy him until Spring. He crawled out of his house half-starved, and I guess he would have starved if Bunny Rabbit hadn't found him and given him something to eat. Well, it was the last time Chatty Chipmunk ever tried that plan. "It may be all right for woodchucks to live on their own fat, but not for chipmunks," he said.

The next Fall Chatty Chipmunk's storeroom fairly bulged with his big food supply for the Winter.

WINIFRED BLACK ASKS US WHAT IS The Purpose of Education

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

THE Women's Council of the State University of California has decreed that women students of the university must not go on slumming parties.

Must not go out alone after dark.

And must not be away from home any later than 2 o'clock in the morning.

And the young women in question are as cross as two sticks about it.

They say they're not going to hunt around for an escort when they want to go to town to the theatre, just because they're university students.

Why shouldn't they call up another girl and run along, just like the rest of the girls and think no more about it?

Slumming—well, they're not so crazy about that, but it is rather interesting to see how the other half lives, don't you know? And what's the use of reading Freud and Havelock Ellis and all the rest of the "new" philosophers, if you can't even take a run down to the Barbary Coast and see what Lily and Violet and Rose look like when they're sitting at a little table in the dark corner of the little restaurant being just too utterly Bohemian for words?

Two o'clock in the morning—well, that's the limit.

Why even the song doesn't stop till "Three o'Clock in the Morning," and who wants to go to a party and be a spoil-sport?

Who has any use for a girl that's always getting up and going home or beginning to hint about going home just when the fun is getting to be real fun?

Who wants to measure hilarity with an hour-glass, and if you've got to be asking somebody what time it is, you might as well stay home and be done with it.

And some of the girls are telling each other that they came to the university to get their freedom, not to give it up. They're even talking about going straight home or stepping over to town and hiring little studios, two by two, and then going to the university in the daytime and doing as they please in the evening.

All very interesting, isn't it?

Theatres—Slumming—Dances

But may an innocent bystander inquire, in all innocence, when these young ladies are going to do their studying?

Theatre parties, slumming expeditions, dances—why it sounds like anything in the world but a university idea of hard work.

What does the average girl go to a State university for anyhow, really?

Ten years ago the co-ed was a well-defined type. You could tell her as soon as you got a glimpse of her—flat heels, straight hair, big spectacles and a corrugated brow. She never went to parties, or to any such gay and frivolous thing as an ordinary theatre.

Not she. Lectures and themes were more in her line.

Once in a while she fell in love with one of the students, and then she curled her hair and put heels on her shoes and became not merely a co-ed, but little Mary So-and-So, who had such cute dimples and such really nice eyes.

The co-ed of to-day is a different proposition entirely.

She's up to snuff. She knows the world and the ways of it.

Can she dance? Just ask her partners.

Can she—er—ah—smoke? Well, I'm afraid she can, and does, sometimes.

Is she masculine, independent, ultra-modern?

Sometimes she is. And sometimes she's the most feminine little girl you ever saw, and she goes to the university because that's the place where she can meet a lot of awfully nice men, and what's life for if it isn't to meet men?

But the taxpayers who are supporting the universities in the different States—do they really like the idea of spending their money just to give a lot of pleasant little persons the opportunity to learn jazz steps and acquire the very latest things in eyelash radio?

And Parents Pay the Bills

What do you suppose the professors and their wives think about it all?

The fathers and mothers—well, the idea of thinking of them! They don't count in the least—how can they?

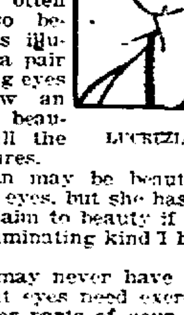

All that's requested of them is that they pay the board bill. If they will do that they needn't bother about another thing.

How would you feel about the slumming and the 2 o'clock in the morning—if it were your Malinda Jane who had gone to the university to get the vague thing we love to call an "education"?

Would you side with the Women's Council or would you side with the girls?

Optic Exercises Enhance Your Claim to Beauty

By LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

LUCREZIA BORI

STRONG, sparkling eyes are an ever valid claim to beauty.

We all know how a face that is not really beautiful often appears so because it is illumined by a pair of sparkling eyes that throw an illusion of beauty over all the other features.

A woman may be beautiful and have weak eyes, but she has a much stronger claim to beauty if her eyes are the illuminating kind I have just mentioned.

Now it may never have occurred to you that eyes need exercise just as the other parts of your body do. You know exercise keeps your body strong and active and well moulded. Do you know that exercise also keeps your eyes strong and active and sparkling?

Of course you do exercise your eyes during the day. In fact if you try sitting for a while with your eyes closed, you'll realize how much you do exercise them during the course of an ordinary day. You're always looking up and down, and if you have some special kind of work that keeps you looking from one object to another, you may find that your eyes need perfect rest after the day's work is done.

For instance, an artist who sits at a drawing board all day and works from a model finds that looking up at the model and then back at the board on which he's working grows very tiresome. After such a day is over his eyes need perfect rest rather than exercise.

But if you do not use your eyes in a way which requires adapting them, or changing the focus often, you'll find special exercises for the purpose are very beneficial. If you are engaged in some work during the day which requires the constant use of your eyes on something close at hand, you'll also benefit by these eye exercises I'm going to give you here:

Place yourself at one side of your room, either standing or comfortably seated.

Now the exercise consists in keeping your head perfectly still and turning your glance from one corner of the ceiling to the other, moving your eyes only.

Do this for about ten counts.

Then walk to your window. Pick a far distant object and one close at hand.

Go through the same movement, shifting your gaze from the distant object to the near one without moving your head at all.

Practise this for the same number of counts.

This exercise will strengthen the muscles of your eyes. They will not tire so easily, and very soon you will possess clear, sparkling eyes that are strong and well and lovely. There is no more priceless beauty asset than this.

Of course, you must never abuse your eyes in other ways if you expect this exercise to give you the fullest amount of beauty aid. Never read in a bad light, and if you have the best light, never continue reading till your eyes are tired.

It is a very good plan to keep some harmless eye-wash in your bathroom. When you come in with tired eyes, or eyes that feel as if they had collected a large share of the dust blowing about on the street, you'll find using the wash makes your eyes feel infinitely cleaner and less tired. And with this help, they are bound to look more beautiful.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

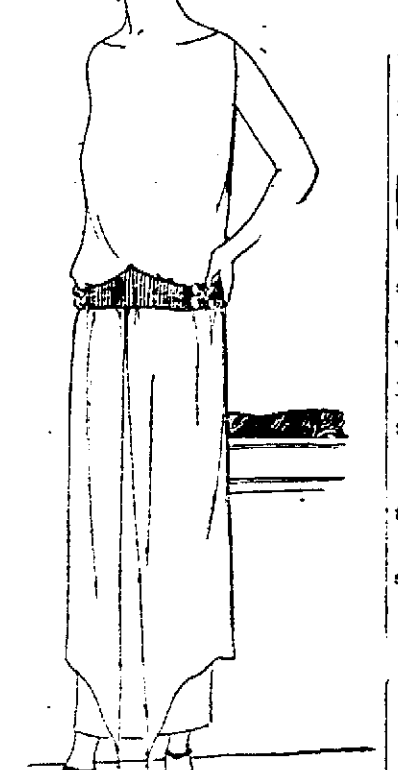

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 11.

Although an active day is forecast from the prevailing astral activities, yet perplexities and excitement may be looked for, as both Saturn and Mars rule adversely. Under the first baneful figure it may be difficult to make progress. The health may prove disturbing. Under the Martian ruling strife, bad temper and tumult may reign. Sol is adverse to those in the employment of others. But [illegible] and Mercury are favorable [illegible] and wise action may save [illegible].

Those whose birthday it is may have a troublesome year unless they exercise good judgment and controlled demeanor in all their activities. Also the health should receive proper attention. Those in the employment of others should be careful. A child born on this day may be disposed to be rash and impudent, thereby nullifying splendid opportunities which the fates will send, unless it is well trained.

Soft Apricot Satin Is the Chief Charm of This Simple Evening Gown.

SO many women complain of the difficulty of finding unusual shades for evening. They feel that after the conventional pinks and blue and blacks and whites are used there are few becoming shades left.

Have you ever considered apricot? There's a peculiar quality about this tone that makes it flattering to a number of complexions.

This model of soft apricot satin is simply made, adding a tunic by way of variety. A puffed girdle of self material and ornaments of gold add their finishing touches.

JOHNSON SPONSORS BILL

Minnesota Senator Introduces a Resolution for Calling of Nations to Combat War.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Senator Magnus Johnson, Minnesota, today introduced a resolution in the senate authorizing the president to call an international conference of all nations with whom the United States has treaties for the purpose of formulating new treaties against war.

The resolution also provides for appointment of an international peace commission which would investigate international tangles and report within twelve months.

Senator Ladd, North Dakota progressive, intraduced a resolution which would prevent the president or congress declaring war without a referendum except in case of invasion or insurrection.

WANT TOKIO REBUILT.

TOKIO. (By Mail).—The political pessimist—is having his fling in Tokio now. He is demanding why the government doesn't decide upon and announce its plan for rebuilding Tokio He wants to know how long before something will be done—and what it will be. The coolies are going about their business cheerfully and unquestionably. They were burned out—but they've built shacks, some sort of crude shelter. It's going to be a hard winter—but they're alive and grinning, and apparently not kicking very much. But not so the politicians "Why doesn't the government do something? Why this delay?" they cry.

Farmers' Union News.

Lincoln—A luncheon, followed by a debate on the question of a one-house legislature, will be held by the Lancaster county farmers union at the Grand hotel on December 14, W. F. Dale, county legislative committeeman has announced. The debaters will be Otto Mutz and George T. Thompson. Members of the farmers union thruout the county are expected to bring their wives, and plans are being made for a large attendance.

Sidney—Twenty-eight members of Bunker Hill local of the farmers union drove into the cornfield of their neighbor and fellow member, Henry Ehmke, on the morning of December 3 and before dark and husked and cribbed 1,400 bushels of corn for him. Mr. Ehmke received a broken leg in an accident several weeks ago, and has since been unable to attend to his farm work. He was most grateful for this substantial "lift." The neighbors who took part in the "bee" went home with a feeling of satisfaction that they had helped a brother over a rough place.

Wisner—Sales totaling $133,248 24 in ten months were shown by a preliminary adult of the books of the Farmers Union Coo-perative association has a paid-up capital of $60,-eral store handling groceries, dry goods, farm implements, and produce. Slumps in inventory values, particularly in implements, left the association with a deficit, but this has been greatly reduced, and the directors hope to wipe it out entirely before the end of the year. The association hasa paid-up capital of $60,-000. Otto Glaubius is president, and Clarence Wallace is secretary and manager.

Red Cloud—An all-day quarterly convention of the Webster county farmers union was held in the Garfield community church on December 1. Luncheon was served by the Willing Workers' club. About 100 delegates and visiting members were entertained. J. C. Norgaard, manager of the Farmers Union creamery at Superior, Neb., and H. G. Keeney of Cowles, this county, members of the state union board of directors, were the principal speakers Chore time came before the business of the convention had been finished, so it was decided to hold an adjourned meeting in Red Cloud on December 20. This special meeting will be devoted particularly to discussion of subjects that will come before the state convention in January

Colgate Game Confirmed by Dispatch From Hamilton

EASTERN TEAM WILL COME HERE OCT. 18

Marks First Meeting of Nebraska and Syracuse Victors on Gridiron in History of the Schools.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 10.—(United Press).—Colgate and Nebraska will meet on the gridiron next fall, a game having been scheduled between the two teams at Lincoln, Neb., on October 18. It will be the first game between the two schools.

The foregoing dspatch removes all doubt concerning one of the two doubtful games on the Nebraska schedule. The other tentative game University of Southern California here Thanksgiving day, is still very doubtful and any definite announcement concerning it will come from Los Angeles, Nebraska officials stated.

With the booking of the Colgate game some information concerning the university is timely. Colgate is located at Hamilton, N. Y., was established in 1819 and last year had an enrollment of 678 men. Not a big school but a school that produces great football teams. Take its accomplishment this past season when, after an "in-and-out" season, Tryon and his teammates got started against Syracuse, the pride of all the east and ruined the perfect record of the Orange.

Just Loose Talk.

BY BOZEMAN BULGER.

The nature takers who have related with intriguing detail the wariness of the wild turkey, have been stopped—stopped cold. Men who have spent weeks in an effort to get one shot at a gobbler, only to hold their breaths for an hour and then hear one "put! put"—the turkey gone and the trip over—well, those fellows may as well pack up their calls, the knowledge of woodcraft, and rest in peace.

With noses to the ground on the scent of baseball news a group of writers in full voice found John Ringling, owner of the ranch in Florida adjoining the next training camp of the Giants at Sarasosa.

"Fellows,"said Mr. Ringling, "you just come to Sarasota in the spring. Your sportsmen—well! There's everything. Golfing, fishing, hunting"——

"Did you say hunting?" inquired a nimrod of experience.

"Yes, hunting—we have everything—deer, geese, turkeys"——

"Any guides?" inquired the nimrod. " Can you really get any wild turkeys? I've spent four years trailing them now. Never have had a shot. Turkeys are the wildest and most elusive thing known to animal life."

"Don't need a shot, don't have to hunt with guns," declared Mr. Ringling. "We've got thousands of wild turkeys on the place—fat? Lemme tell you something—those turkeys are so fat that you can go out in the woods and catch them with your hands! All you've got to do is decide on the right size. Then you walk up and take the turkey in your arms. They'll even follow you home if you are gentle! And there are thousands of them!

This turkey story—the catching 'em wth your bare hands—mi; I have got first prize—no questions asked—but for a letter from Irvin Cobb. The famous scrivener is now in the marshes of Louisiana.

"Say," he writes, "don't worry any more about mallard duck. We went into a marsh the other day and I'm honestly telling you so many ducks got up that it sounded like a Bronx express running out the end of the boat. They darkened the skies so that we had to strike matches.

"I got tired of shooting them. You could have hit them with a parlor rifle. When daylight came we found we could save our shells. At their first sight of human beings these ma-lards would get so excited you could reach in the tall grass and catch 'em with your hands!"

At that, the committee decided that John Ringling gets the medal. Cobb has been awarded the brown derby.

Catching a wild turkey with your hand—somehow, we can't quite get away from that. It's sort of like catching a cinnamon bear with a hook, line and sinker.

According to a Chicago scribe Lou Gehrig, the substitute first baseman for the Yanks, can hit a ball harder than any man in the world excepting Babe Ruth.

Gehrig, it seems, went to Chicago as a member of the high school of commerce team to play the high school champions in the Cubs' park. He got one on the nose and slammed it over the top of the right field stand.

"I told both Chicago clubs to get this fellow," the scribe relates, but they fell down. "As a result the Yanks will have another Babe Ruth just as soon as the Bambino begins to slip. Make no mistakes about it. That Gehrig can slap the old onion."

Miller Huggins listened to this without cracking a smile

"I think he's right, at that," he said. "You can make a bet with me."

War and Baseball.

Base ball was still in its infancy when the Civil war wracked the country. But to show the vitality of the game, baseball followed the armies and was played as it has been ever since whenever there was a war. Some years ago Will Irwin searched the records for historical traces of baseball on the battlefields North and South. Whenever the armies rested for an instant in Tennessee or Virginia, the musket gave way to the bat. The Army of the Potomac turned to baseball as a mainstay while on the Pennsula. Mr. Irwin notes a game played at Fort Fisher, where in the midst of an inning the soldiers had to take to their guns. In Confederate prisons, fly balls were the only things to escape the guards and pop over the walls. On Roanoke Island, so it is recorded, Hawkins's Zouaves made the wilkin ring with their enthusiasm for baseball.

And with this insistence of baseball during war came also the spread of baseball interest in other sections of the country thru the army. Men of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin looked on while the soldiers of the east taught them the game. In the federal priscons, the confederate soldiers from Georgia and South Carolina watched and learned. Thus, while professional baseball was hard hit, new areas were being opened up for a resumption of the game after the war.

At the time of the Spanish-American war, the Porto Ricans and the natives of Manila watched the army and the navy at the game and learned. During the world war, within range of the great guns, undaunted, the diamond flourished. There were crack games at the training camps. Baseball helped to maintain the morale of the expeditionary forces and the government recognized its value. It employed such men as Evers to help in the training activities; when the draft machine began reaching out for men, the government did all it could not to cripple professional baseball. But the professional player enlisted. And he helped to give zest to the game in the battle zone. Over in France, it made men forget for the instant. One night well say: It's a wise general who will put a bat in battle.

DEATH OF DONOVAN SADDENS MEETING

Baseball Magnates in Annual Session at Chicago With Pacific Coast League Controversy First on Card.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Sobered by the tragic death of "Wild Bill" Donovan, killed in the wreck of the Twentieth Century limited, the annual meeting of major and minor league baseball moguls swung into action today.

The fight between ex-President William McCarthy of the Pacific Coast league and Harry Williams, new president, was the first bit of business on the program. Both sides presented their arguments to the national board of arbitration and a verdict may be reached some time today McCarthy disputes the right of Williams to the presidency.

Minor Leagues Meeting.

Nearly a score of minor league meetings are under way.

President John A. Heydler, of the National league, who was a passenger on the ill-fated Twentieth Century but escaped without injury, is rounding up the National magnates for a preliminary conference. The official meeting will get under way later.

Ban B. Johnson, president of the American league, has called a conference of his league for tomorrow.

The joint meeting of the American and National leagues will be held Wednesday.

The death of Donovan came as a great shock to the 2,000 owners, managers, players and scouts gathered for the meeting. Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, who was a rookie when the brilliant pitcher was at the height of his fame, said:

Helped Cobb Start.

"Bill helped me get started. When the other boys gave me the razz because all rookies get it, Bill took a kindly interest in me and helped me along. He has been one of my greatest friends and it is hard to lose him."

Some action, in token of respect to Donovan, will be taken by the meeting.

LITTLE LESSONS IN Basketball

What are the best tactics for a guard to adopt against the opposing forward?

Answered by
"CHUCK" CARNEY.

University of Illinois star and captain of the all-Western conference team, 1921-22. High point scorer for western conference, scoring 173 points, greatest number ever scored by a played in a single collegiate season.

The most important point for any guard to remember is to station himself so as to be between the opposing forward and his own basket. The guard must also remember never to rush the opposing forward but maintain a position that will enable him to meet a pivot or change of pace by his opponent. A guard should never cross his feet, but should maintain the following position, feet well apart, knees slightly bent, arms outstretched so as to be able to shift to meet any unexpected move on the part of his opponent. Never be caught flat-footed. Rest the weight on the balls of the feet so as to be able to move instantly.

Foremost Contenders Are Afraid to Enter Ring With Harry Wills

Colored Fighter Announces That he Is Ready to Meet All Comers, But Finds That None of the First Raters Want to Take Risk—Meanwhile Mullins' Charge Idle.

By Henry L. Farrell.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—To be consistent is to be as much desired and is required perhaps as much in writing sports as it is in any other line of business.

To be consistent means to say one thing and stick to it as long as it is warranted by the facts: to adhere to the popular line—"That's my story and I'll stick to it," even when the facts turn in wrong.

Harry Wills has been frequently and consistently criticized in this column. It has been said of him that he was holding out for the loser's end of a fight with Dempsey, that he had turned down more than $100,000 in business last season because he did not care to risk the loss of his prestige with any dangerous contenders and that he had gone back until it was doubtful that he would be able to win from a good opponent where the rules against "holding and hitting" were enforced

Wills Remains Idle.

This last opinion still holds good. It is thought that Wills is not the fighter he once was, granting that he once was a great fighter. It is only natural that at his age he could not remain idle and out of practice and retain the peak of his form.

It is still believed that he is not as effective when he cannot hold and hit as he is when he can snake out his left hand behind the neck of his opponent and pull him into a right hand punch. As far as that goes, no boxer can be as effective when he has to stick to the rules, but Wills is more inclined to foul tactics than any other contender for the heavyweight championship.

But as to the other things said about his sincerity in seeking the heavyweight championship or in proving his claim to the first shot at Jack Dempsey, it is sincerely desired to take those things back.

Justice Desired.

It is not appropriate to say that those criticisms are retracted by the desire to do justice to Harry Wills, because it should not have to be said. Justice is the first requisite of a critic who would like to have his criticisms respected. Fairness is primarily essential in anyone who desires to be manly and a good sport with it.

So, it is with pleasure, principally because Wills is too good a sport to ask it and for the reason that he is so fair-minded that he will sacrifice his own feelings to grant the right of others to their own opinion, that those previous statements are contradicted and that they are amended to state in fact that Harry Wills is willing to do anything asked of him to prove his right to meet Dempsey.

Several weeks ago a committee in charge of a Christmas benefit fund in New York was trying to arrange a card for a boxing show that would be the best attraction available.

To Meet All Comers.

At the close of the outdoor season when he had finally become convinced that his chances for getting into the ring with Dempsey had blown up, Wills said that he was going back to fighting and that he would take all comers.

Wills perhaps is the best card in New York against any opponent outside of the "set-up class."

The committee approached Wills and asked if he would be willing to fight the star number on the card

He replied that he was willing

With some doubts the committee then asked him what fighter he would be willing to take

"Anyone," he replied

When the names were called for him "Firpo, Gibbons, Renault, Siki, Godfrey—" he broke in and said:

"Yes, or any other one you can think of, so get 'em."

Others Back Down.

Figuring that the biggest part of their job had been accomplished, the committee set about getting one of that list of fighters who had been yelping that they were willing to take Wills—and not one of them would listen to an offer.

Wills was ready to meet any one of them. Perhaps he would have fought three of them five rounds apiece (he didn't say that), but they wouldn't listen to any kind of terms.

Firpo is in South America, and he has his own ideas about purses not in keeping with those of any committee that desires to have anything left for charity.

Gibbons has drawn the color-line. He is busy with vaudeville and he wants Dempsey again without any risks between.

Renault Not Ready.

Renault was forced to admit that he had no excuse other than that advanced by his manager that he is not ready His same manager, several weeks before, had invited a sport writer to go with him and watch Paddy Mullins run out when Renault was hurled at him.

Godfrey's first class excuse is that he is afraid of Wills, and Godfrey is not a good card, as he is generally known to be timid.

Siki has the weight excuse. He's too light to fight Wills and, as a matter of fact, he would be foolish to take a chance of ruining some good business that is waiting for him.

Admit Wills Too Good.

With all of the "foremost contenders" frankly admitting that Wills is too good for them the big colored boy if he desires to get only financial returns from his business will have to go back to the setups.

Under the circumstances, which have been brought out with no factor of doubt attending them, Wills never will be criticized in this column again for meeting setups.

And the next time the manager of any contender speaks about being desirous of making Wills fight, it shall be remarked:

"Apple sauce!"

Hudkins Wins All But One of Rounds

There is big variance of opinion with regard to the Ace Hudkins-Harry LeBarre fight at Sioux City Saturday night. An Associated Press dispatch published in Sunday's Journal stated that the fight was a draw. Lincoln fans at the ringside insist Hudkins administered a clean beating, losing only one round, and having LeBarre completely out only to be saved by the bell in the seventh.

In a preliminary bout in which Big Munn was knocked out in the fourth round, it was claimed that his opponent, Charley Paulson, struck him after the bell sounded in the third round. The judges declared that the cheering of the crowd had drowned out the sound of the bell and they also ruled that Munn had not been hurt by the blow on the chin, when Referee Frenholm put the matter up to them.

"Rusty" Evans, York, got a draw with Donnie Dean of St. Paul, because of his aggressiveness, Dean outboxing the Nebraskan

Havelock Cagesters Arrange a Schedule

The Havelock high school basketball schedule for the coming season arranges for fourteen games. Five games, the ones with College View, Wilber, Waverly, and Valparaiso are to be double headers with the girl teams playing one of the games. Coach Tyler who developed the winning football team during the past grid season, expects to turn out another winning aggregation. The schedule:

FARRELL SAYS GENE TUNNEY SHOULD WIN

Another Bout Between Light Heavyweights Holds New York's Attention—Greb's Training Is Lax.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Gene Tunney and Harry Greb, the "you-be-a-while-and-then-I'll-be champions of the light heavyweight class, are to mingle again tonight in Madison Square Garden.

Tunney the handsome Greenwich Villager, is the current champion, and Greb, the flying Dutchman from Pittsburgh, is the middleweight champion.

Tex Reckard received a cable today from Georges Carpentier asking that he be matched to meet the winner in February.

Rickard has been getting a lot of cables from Carpentier.

Tunney is Favorite.

Tunney will make a lot of Christmas money for the boys if he comes thru as the bulk of cash around New York has deposited on the former marine.

Greb's established knack of making the best look bad, has prevented the offering of any fat odds against him.

Managers, who seldom admit there is anything wrong with "us" before the fight, claimed today that both boxers were in good shape.

Greb showed in a recent bout in Pittsburgh with Bryan Downey that he is in good condition, but Tunney has been out of the ring for a long time and surface indications some time go wrong.

Tunney won the title the first time early in 1922 when he beat Battling Levinsky, but he held it for only four months, when Greb came along and removed the crown from his dome.

Greb did a lot of work in that bout that was regarded as foul by the experts and when Tunney succeeded in getting a return bout, the city was swamped with warnings that Greb should be forced to remain within the rules.

Charge Funny Decision.

The officials were so careful on the occasion of the second meeting that Greb was careful and he lost the decision, altho loud cries went up that Tunney won on a funny decision.

No warnings have been sounded this time to "watch Greb" but the clever Billy Gibson arranged a clever piece of "goat-getting" by hiring George Engle, the former manager of Greb, to work in Tunney's corner. Engle and Greb do not speak.

Tunney is a good fighter. He has been handicapped some by a rather backward disposition and hard pair of hands. His "dukes" are said to be in good shape now, however.

If Tunney goes after Greb and carries a real offensive, he should win, as Greb has not been taking care of himself and even if it has not shown up on him yet, it is certain that he can't go on forever without training.

Greb would have been knocked out by Johnny Wilson if the former middleweight champion had gone after him and for the same reason Tunney ought to win tonight if he is willing to carry the fight.

LETTERS AWARDED AT LINCOLN HIGH

Principal Shepherd Pays Tribute to Team Members Who Set Up an Unusual Record During Playing Season.

Lincoln high school did not win a championship in football the past season but nine victories out of ten chances is not at all bad, as Principal Shepherd pointed out after the annual football assembly during which time letters were given both first and second team players.

"But what I consider really important is this: Not once during the season have I found it necessary to speak to any member of the team regarding an irregularity of any kind. In all my high school experience there is nothing that compares with that. I attribute to it the attitude of Coach Browne, Captain Brown and all of the team members.

"Lincoln high school also upheld its reputation for clean sportsmanship and improved its courtesy to both visiting teams and rooters," Principal Shepherd said.

Coaches Browne and Gautsch spoke along with Captain John Brown and Captain Vern Lewellen of the Nebraska team. Letters were awarded twenty first team members as follows.

Nebraska Ball Players in California

From Hastings Tribune.

"Dinah" Wright, pitcher of the Hastings ball club, is showing his stuff this winter in California's sunny clime and the way he is getting away with it is causing a bit of a stir in Calexico.

According to recent communication from Calexico the boys of the Nebraska league who went with Harry Cheek to the coast are putting it over with the Californians and accounts of two games indicate the fans are taking notice.

Five-Club League.

Calexico is a member of the league in which Mexicali, Calipatria, Brawley and El Centro aret identified. "Dinah" Wright has pitched two games. He lost the first game by 1 to 0 and won the second by 12 to 2.

Bentley, Conkey and Echtremeyer are also playing with Calexico. However, Bentley is now playing in the right garden and Echtermeyer is covering shortsiop.

In commenting upon the first game played with Mexicali the Calexico Chronicle says:

Lost on Pop Fly.

"Wright, who made his first appearance here as a pitcher, held the Mexicali players to five hits. They got their only run in the fourth inning when two players went after a pop fly. It fell to the ground, allowing the only run to cross the plate."

Conkey and Echtermeyer were heroes in the second game as they came thru with hits in the fourth inning when El Centro was leading 1 to 0. With one man on base Conkey pounded out a clean triple and Echtermyeer followed with a home run.

While the winter schedule calls for two games a week at present the former Hastings players are leanring carpentry.

Calexico is building a fine, new grandstand and the ball players are working on it.

"Dinah" Wright said in a letter received here that the ball club would make good time keepers.

Will Rejoin Cubs.

After the successful barnstorming tour of the All Stars, directed by Harry Cheek, the team disbanded at Los Angeles Most of the players found permanent berths with clubs on the coast and expect to rejoin the Nebraska clubs when baseball season opens here next spring.

MECCA FOR POLITICIANS

PRESIDENT'S SECRETARY SEES MANY CALLERS.

With Announcement of Coolidge's Candidacy Still Echoing, Republican National Committeeman and Others Call.

By Lawrence Martin.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — The white house today became national headquarters of the Coolidge for president campaign.

With the republican national committee in town and with the formal announcement of Mr. Coolidge's candidacy still echoing, the office of C. Bascom Slemp, Mr Coolidge's secretary and political lieutenant, became the mecca of politicians eager to "climb on the band wagon" to get front seats.

Henry Lincoln Johnson, the negro republican leader from Georgia, was the first political caller. J. W. Hart, republican national committeeman from Idaho saw the president a moment and then had a long talk with Slepm. Hart later lunched with Secretary of War Weeks, one of Coolidge's lieutenants.

Tom Roberts, Pierre, S D, was introduced to the president by Commissioner of Indian Affairs Burke of South Dakota. Roberts is understood to have conveyed to the president official notification of his endorsement by the state convention in South Dakota last week.

Senator Spencer, Missouri, talked with the president about appointment of a federal judge in Missouri.

Ex-Senator Calder of New York, saw Slemp to talk politics.

Now that Mr. Coolidge is openly in the field, questions which his silence kept more or less in the background have come to the front. Chief among them are these:

Who will be the next chairman of the republican national committee if Mr Coolidge is nominated

What will the national committee do about southren representation in the national convention?

Will Mr. Coolidge actively oppose Hiram Johnson in the presidential primaries in California and other states?

Formal announcement of Mr. Coolidge's candidacy said that William M. Butler, national committeeman from Massachusetts, would have the Coolidge campaign in charge. That however, applies only to the pre-convention campaign. Butler is new to the national political arena, altho he has been in politics a long time. His personal ambition is to be United States senator from Massachusetts, succeeding David I Walsh, democrat, is believed here to preclude his becoming national chairman. George Harvey is much spoken of in this connection.

Southern representation forces have demanded a bigger cut in the southern delegations, in favor of northern states holding presidential primaries. At the same time, a committee came here today representing southern republicans to protest against the reduction being made. Mississippi republicans, who yesterday endorsed Coolidge, put up to the national committee today this question:

"Do you want Mr. Coolidge to have twelve votes from Mississippi, under the old appointment, or four, which he will get under the new one?"

As to the presidential primaries, it is assumed here Mr Coolidge will go into them, taking advantage of the invitation which Hiram Johnson issued to all of his rivals for the republican nomination.

Mr. Weidemann wanted his wife to give up the stage. "Love me, love my footlights,'" said Miss King, and now he has given in

PREACHER TASTES DEFEAT

Rev. Mr. Courrier and Vigilantes Fail to Stop Sunday Night Dance.

PLAINFIELD, Ill, Dec. 10 —Tasting defeat in his first skirmish with the Renwick dancing pavilion proprietors, Rev George F Courrier, vigilante pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church here, today made plans to increase his "moral pressure"

At the head of sixty men, Rev. Mr Courrier invaded the pavillion last night The vigilantes took up stations along the walls. They simply watched the several score couples, mostly young, gyrate about the hall.

Rev Mr Courrier was met by William Faulkner, attorney for the pavilion, with the statement that the dance hall was not violating the law The pavilion is a business enterprise, "conducted by twenty six respectable business men of Joliet," Faulkner said.

"The hall may not be violating any statute law, but it is violating the moral laws." Rev. Mr. Courrier said "The Sunday night dances are taking the youth away from the church and leading them to things which we cannot imagine"

After a period of "moral pressure' which apparently failed to affect the owners or dancers, Rev. Mr. Courrier and his vigilantes departed.

"Next Wednesday night I shall send the mothers of the town to picket the dance hall." Rev Mr Courrier said 'Then we will send the bible class over I will increase the number of our wo kers at every dance, until we win."

Faulkner told Rev. Mr. Courrier that $18 500 had been invested in the place by Joliet business men and that they did not intend to lose their money.

How many wives complain in the evening of being too tired to go calling or riding or to the theatre! And how many of them look just as tired as they feel!

All because they insist on doing household drudgery someone else should be doing!

Honestly, after a few months trial of one of our family services, you'll agree that even if it cost much more, it would be worth it. But its actual cost is reasonable indeed.

King & Sskew, merchants of Whitman, have entered a protest to the state railway commission against the use of a car by a rock sale merchant as his place of business. C. trucks of the state for $75 each. One of his trucks now in use has a worn out transmission. Mr. Cowgill says a now one will cost $69. Hance was arrested in company with Charles French, Grace Reese and L. P. Fisk, all of whom are held on the same charge. One of the questions asked the jury by Hance's attorney, was whether or not the fact that Hance has a previous criminal record, would have any effect on their rendering a fair and impartial verdict.

MANUFACTURING MEN ELECT

C. C. Quiggle Made President. A. R. Capron Secretary—State Meeting Is Discussed.

C. C. Quiggle was elected president of the Lincoln Manufacturers association at a meeting of the directors Monday at the chamber of commerce and A. R. Capron secretary.

Most of the meeting was devoted to discussion of the convention of the Nebraska Manufacturers' association, which is to be held Tuesday in Lincoln. The Lincoln association is to be in effect host to the out of town men, and prospects Monday were that a large crowd would be on hand. An unusually good attendance from outside the city was anticipated by Otto Zumwinkel, commissioner of the state association. The main address to be given by William Butterworth of Moline is attracting attention outside manufacturing circles, Mr. Zumwinkel said, and a number of business men in other lines are expected to attend the banquet to hear this talk.

The convention opens at 9.30 in the annex dining room, chamber of commerce, followed by luncheon in the main dining room and an afternoon session at 2 o'clock. The banquet will be at the chamber of commerce at 6 o'clock.

SUGGEST CHANGE IN THE CITY CHARTER

City Planning Subdivision Proposes Radical Departure in Connection With a Water Board.

The city planning subdivision of the chamber of commerce heard the report of its water board subcommittee Monday noon, and after some discussion decided to hold a special meeting next Monday, to which a number of interested persons should be invited, to go into the matter further. A number of meetings will be devoted to consideration of the plan before the subdivision takes action on it.

As a first step to obtaining proper and adequate administration of its water problems, the city under the plan suggested would increase the number of commissioners, have them serve as an executive board equally interested in all departments, and employ skilled men to act as department heads. The report included tentative suggestions that the commissioners serve without pay, and that they serve for six years after the first group were elected for terms of various lengths.

Considerable time was given to discussion of a suitable monument to Spanish-American war veterans, on the site in Antelope park long ago set aside for this purpose. A design by a local artist was submitted, and Chairman Towne directed to appoint a committee of five to work out a plan with the subcommittee which brought in its report at this meeting.

Kearney—Getting up in the middle of the night to move his bed came near being the end of everything for H. A. Barney. It so happened that he anchored one of the posts against a gas pipe which had been previously disconnected in the same manner that the gun which kills a person has been unloaded. The petcock became opened, and when Mr Barney awakened again about 5 o'clock in the morning, he was so weakened from the fumes that he was unable to do more than rise from his bed when he fell back in a swoon. Others in the household, smelling the escaping gas, instituted a search, and were able to resuscitate the unfortunate victim. A window, partially raised, in the room, is said to have been the means of preserving Mr. Barney's life.

Kearney—Ghosts of a romantic past were aroused in the minds of the pioneers of this county last week, when Dr. A. A. Munn razed the rear twenty feet of his veterinary shop to make way for modern additions. For in that twenty feet were beautiful white pine boards, which, still in the original structure, formed the smithy and wagoners shop at which the forty-niners stopped on their way west to have their wagons mended or horses shod. The old hand-wrought iron braces were still intact, and the boards as perfect as when they were transported from eastern saw mills. Dr. Munn is preserving the boards, which are from two and a half to three feet wide, without a blemish on them.

OMAHA, Dec. 10.—Members of the family of the late Lieut. Jarvis J. Orfutt have received no official word of the finding of the body of Orfutt in a cemetery in Connelsville, Pa., after having been buried there as the body of another soldier in 1921.

Casper Y. Orfutt, a brother, said the body will be brought to Omaha for burial. According to advices from Connelsville, Orfutt's body has been removed to Washington and will be placed in Arlington national cemetery and will then be sent to Omaha if the parents accept the identification of the war department.

War departments clerks worked on the records of 77,000 American dead before they were able to locate the body of Offutt.

Identifications were made by a dental chart, showing twenty gold fillings in Offutt's mouth.

SIDE TALKS

(By Ruth Cameron.)

Imagine 250 million seals in a row.

Of course you can guess at this time of year what kind of seals I mean. Not the kind that lie on the ice or the rocks and flop disobligingly into the water just when you get near enough to have a good look at them.

No, I mean the kind that we put on letters to remind ourselves and the rest of the world that after all Christmas is something more than an orgy of gift buying, that it is the birthday of One whose message to a pagan world was the strange new idea of altruism.

Altruism a Brand New Idea.

We are so accustomed to the Christmas ideal of altruism that, whether we make an attempt to live up to it or not, we regard it as a natural idea. We can hardly conceive a world where the need to look after the weak was not regarded as a moral obligation. And so, I think, we do not sense what a novel idea Christ brought to the world when He asked: "Am I my brother's keeper?" and gave the ringing answer that echoed to the remotest corners of the world and down thru the centuries to the present day.

If Christ should come back to earth on Christmas day and find us pretending to celebrate his birthday, I wonder if there would not be a scene something like that when His scorn whipped the money changers out of the temple. He would leave the children their gaiety, and He would sympatbize with the gift giving among older folks where the gift carried love, and He would be glad of the Christmas carols and the candles and all the sweet home customs, but what would He think of the formality and the artificiality and the extravagance and the heartlessness of this vast holiday, as pagan as my Pharisees feast day in His own time.

Santa Claus' Birthday.

I heard the other day of a child of seven who when asked what Christmas was, explained that it was Santa Claus' birthday. Well might she think it from the emphasis that we place on the Santa Claus' part of it and the meagerness of our tribute to the Christ child.

The Christmas tuberculosis seal is one of the few truly Christian things about Christmas. It is one of the finest expressions of our twentieth century conception of altruism. We are our brothers' keeper. We will not let him fall by the wayside. We will band together and we will teach him how to escape the white plague and we will help him when he lacks the means to fight it. And the Christmas seal is the seal and sign of this brotherhood.

You Won't Enjoy Your Christmas If You Don't.

Think of the happiness that would be in your heart this Christmas if some one of your family had been condemned to death by tuberculosis and had been reprieved. That is the kind of happiness you are going to give when you buy Christmas seals. The more of these seals you buy the more of this happiness you can give. Can you enjoy your own Christmas if you have not bought as many to add to the 250 million seals already sold as you can possibly afford?

the taxpayers are the stockholders of the business corporations of the United States and that if this business is showing a surplus of receipts, the taxpayers should share therein in some material way that will be of immediate benefit.

"I recommend a revision of tax law along lines which will effect a reduction of income taxes by taxing earned income more lightly than income from business or from investments; by reducing the percentages of the normal tax and by reducing the surtax rates, with commencement of their application at $10,000 instead of $6,000.

"I also recommend repeal of the tax on telegrams, telephones, and leased wires and of the tax on admissions, and revision of the miscellaneous taxes which are a source of inconvenience to taxpayers and difficult to collect.

"On the other hand, amendments which would cause some increase of revenue should also be made to existing income tax laws relative to deductions of capital losses; deductions from gross income for interest paid and non-business losses sustained, where income from tax exempt securities is involved; and the manner of taxing community incomes. These changes would reduce taxes by more than $300,000,000, which is safely within the probable surplus.

"It would not take much, however, to exhaust this margin and any program of new expenditures on a large scale would make tax reduction impossible for years to come.

"I know of nothing which will give the people of this nation greater assurance that we are unalterably committed to a campaign of economy in public expenditure, than a reduction of our present taxation.

Need Alignment.

"It would certainly tend to align the whole people in support of economical administration of government and I frankly state that such an alignment is becoming every day more and more necessary because of the influence which it will have upon the states and the other lesser subdivisions of our body politics."

The president then sounded the death knell of the soldier' bonus unless congress should desire and would be able to pass one over the president's veto.

"In stating that a reduction in taxation carries with it an obligation not to embark upon an extraordinary expenditure program, I am not unmindful of the demand for adjusted compensation for soldiers of the world war which would include among its beneficiaries the able bodied of our veterans as well as the disabled," Mr. Coolidge said.

"I question if there is any sound reason for such a measure," he continued.

"The country is prosperous and remunerative employment is available for the able bodied veteran as well as for other citizens. For the disabled veterans of the war and the dependents of these who fell, the country cannot do too much.

"It has already spent nearly two billion dollars and is now spending half a billion dollars yearly for their benefit. That obligation it must and will continue to fulfill in fullest measure.

"But the fit and able bodied veterans are offered the opportunities open to every other citizen. The government has no money to distribute to any class of its citizens that it does not take from the pockets of the people and the payment of a bonus to millions of our former soldiers could only be accomplished at a cost to the whole community, including the veterans themselves, far outweighing the benefits to be conferred.

"If I felt that the soldiers' bonus represented a great need and proper obligation which could be fulfilled by this nation, I certainly would not make a recommendation which would be adverse thereto."

Postoffice department, payable out of postal receipts and not by appropriation, $613,093,184, increase, $28,000,000.

Mr. Coolidge told congress in his message that in addition to these appropriations, he would shortly ask it to provide an additional $20,000,000 with which to purchase more equipment for the coast guard to enable it to cope more adequately with rum runners. If granted, he will later ask $6,000,000 more for the same purpose, he said. These appropriations, he said, would be charged against the current fiscal year.

More for Dry Enforcement

While dwelling on this subject, Mr. Coolidge called particular attention of congress to the increase to $1,600,000 in 1925 estimates for the prohibition enforcement, indicating his desire that the money be provided.

The estimates for the war and navy departments provide for the continuation of the present personnel of the service, no money being provided for the increases in man power sought by Secretaries Weeks and Denby.

Sources of revenue for the fiscal year 1925 were estimated in the budget as follows:

Income and profits tax, $1,800,000,000, a decrease of $50,000,000 from estimated receipts from this source for the current year.

Miscellaneous internal revenue, $927,555,000, a decrease of $6,000,000.

Customs receipts, $493,000,000, a decrease of $77,000,000.

Miscellaneous receipts, $473,177,075, a decrease of $67,000,000.

The British government, President Coolidge said in his message, under the terms of the debt agreement, will pay $161,000,000 into the treasury next year, probably in liberty bonds.

Mr. Coolidge opened his budget message with a concise review of the country's finances since the war. He pointed out that since August, 1919 when the national debt was at its peak of $26,700,000,000, it has been reduced [illegible] [illegible] immediately [illegible] his recommendation for tax reduction.

MERE MENTION

Hugh Lamaster, counsel for the state railway commission, has been advised that the Cedar county district court has granted the order asked for against Charles Fleener, owner of the Cedar [illegible] Telephone company, who has persistently refused until the commission's patience gave out, to make the reports it requires on the blanks it furnished telephone companies. Mr. Fleener made no defense other than an oral statement to the court. He has started making reports, and is now ordered by the court to keep on doing so.

J. I. DeLong is postmaster at Bushnell, when he was getting ready to attend the national convention at Chattanooga he received first one sort of instructions as to purchase of tickets and then another. As a result he forgot to present his certificate in order that he might secure the reduced fare for 250 in attendance. Since he got back he has been trying to secure a refund of the excess and the Union Pacific has finally told him it can do nothing for him because he neglected to show a certificate, that it could not get its connecting lines to join in a refund, and it does not desire to pay it all itself. Mr. DeLong has asked the state railway commission to aid him to get it.

The Allied Contractors have presented a brief to the supreme court in support of their contention that they were not properly sued in Lancaster county by Mrs. Inoa McEwen. She secured a judgment for $15 a week for 350 weeks under the workmen's compensation act for the death of her husband. He worked at bridge building, and his duties required him to stand for hours in cold water. He left the company's employment in good health, but within three weeks was dead from, as is claimed, the exposure. The employer objects that this is not an accident within the meaning of the law.

Brohers and sisters of Edward Klanecky, Custer county farmers, are in supreme court trying to get an order requiring him to pay over to six of them or their heirs the $100 legacy their father gave them in his will. The father died eleven years ago. His will gave a farme to Edward and he was enjoined to pay $100 to each of the six brothers and sisters named. It also gave his widow a life interest in the estate. Edward insists that until after his mother dies he will not come into his inheritance and that he cannot be required to pay his brothers and sisters until he gets his own legacy. They insist that their father meant he should pay now. Most of them are getting along in years, and if they ever get that hundred, they say, it ought to come soon.

Several days ago Lincoln police had received a bulletin from Denver asking them to be on the lookout for D. C. Skinner. The Edgar bank notified the Nebraska Banker's association of the transaction Saturday and a representative of the association is working with police in checking up on Skinner's stories about the sale of the presses.

State Tax Commissioner W. H. Smith has been informed by Third Assistant Postmaster General U. Irving Clover that counsel for the department holds that postoffice equipment not owned by the federal government is taxable. This information is to be passed on to county taxing officers by Mr. Smith. This overrules a former decision which Postmaster Ray Surber of Davenport, Neb., said he obtained from the third assistant postmaster general. The new ruling is likely to apply to equipment in all third and fourth class postoffices.

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

FILLS PLACE OF SHERIFF

GOVERNOR BRYAN OUSTS CASS COUNTY OFFICER.

C. D. Quinton, Indicted for Malfeasance in Office, Asked to Quit—E. P. Stewart Appointed.

Governor Bryan on Sunday night issued an order suspending Sheriff C D. Quinton of Cass county and appointed E. P. Stewart of Plattsmouth temporarily to fill the position of sheriff. The order and the appointment were made effective at 7 a. m. Monday, December 10.

The governor said Sunday night that his action was taken following telephone conferences with Sheriff Quinton and his counsel, and with District Judge Button of Plattsmouth.

Sheriff Quinton requested the governor to relieve him of his duties as sheriff, "And I have issued an order suspending him from performing his official duties, pending the determination of the indictments brought against him," the governor stated. "The order prohibits him from performing the duties of sheriff. I have appointed E. P. Stewart of Plattsmouth temporarily to the position of sheriff."

Two indictments were brought by the grand jury against Sheriff Quinton. One indictment contained eight counts, each count charging malfeasance in office and with acts of malfeasance. The second contains four counts, each charging perjury in swearing to four quarterly reports concerning the fees of the office.

The trial of Sheriff Quinton is to begin early Monday morning in the district court at Plattsmouth. When the indictments were returned against him, a plea in abatement was denied him, he pleaded not guilty and the date for the trial was set.

Quinton was indicted along with several other persons prominent in Plattsmouth and Cass county. Indictments against County Attorney Cole and Charles W. Chilton were dismissed. Pleas in abatemen were denied the sheriff, Chief of Police Alvin Jones, Constable William Grebe, F. A. Holmes, Mrs. Julia Kaufman, C. C. Parmele and Carl Fricke. All pleaded not guilty and will be tried following the Quinton case.

Judge James T. Begley, "rather than have any misunderstanding in the arraignment of the defendants," requested Judge F. W. Button of Fremont to serve on the bench.

W. E. Thompson, former attorney general of Nebraska, and now a member of the attorney's office, will assist in the prosecution. Judge Begley in an affidavit filed in the case, said he appointed a special county attorney for the investigation because, he alleged, County Attorney Cole had refused to call a grand jury and had threatened citizens after the grand jury had been called.

The affidavit declared that Cole had attempted by every means in his power to hinder the investigation.

Governor Bryan was requested to remove from office Sheriff Quinton. The governor referred the question to Attorney General Spillman, by asking the attorney general's office for an interpretation of the law, defining the duty and authority of the governor in the matter.

DEMOLAY HOLDS A MEMORIAL SERVICE

Order Pays Tribute to Two of Its Members Who Passed Away—Ceremony Was Open to Public.

Tribute to the memory of Luther W. Norris and Emil J. Deuser, the two members who have died since the installation of the lodge, was paid by Lincoln chapter, Order of DeMolay, at the first annual memorial service, held in the Scottish Rite temple, Sunday afternoon.

The ceremonies, which were conducted according to ritual, were held in an open meeting to which all relatives and friends were invited. The officers wore the robes of their positions, making the service impressive. It is planned to hold the memorial services every year hereafter.

As the roll was called by the scribe two names brought no answer. They were those of Luther W. Norris and Emil J. Deuser. The scribe repeated the names three times without response. Master Wendell Berge made the reply. Tho the two who had failed to answer were absent in body and tho their voices were silent in death, they were present, he said, in spirit and in the loving memorances of their comrade..

Frederick Eiche of the advisory board made a short address. The lodge, he declared, never would forget what the two who had passed away had stood for and that the lives of the members would be more full as a result of the examples of clean living which the two had given.

RAISED CHECK IN A DIVORCE SUIT

Charges Made That Check Frank Rohrbacker Gave Wife Grew From $15 to $1,000 After Being Paid.

FREMONT, Neb., Dec. 9.—Sensational evidence involving changes on a check that transformed a fifteen dollar check to a check for $1,000 after it had been cancelled by the bank, was introduced at the divorce trial of Stella M. Rohrbacker against her husband, Frank, for separation and alimony.

Mrs. Rohrbacker is asking for permanent alimony, alleging non-support and cruelty. In attempting to refute the charge of non-support, the defense introduced a check written for $1,000 which the husband offers as proof that he gave his wife money with which to live.

J. Howard Heine, vice president of the Union National bank, was an official of the Farmers' & Merchants bank when the check was drawn. His testimony revealed that the check had gone thru the bank for the sum of $15 according to the records. Attorneys for the plaintiff allege that erasures are visible on the cancelled check and that the amount was changed to $1,000. Rohrbaker until recently operated a hotel at West Point, Neb.

HIS PROGRAM BARS SPOILS

SPEAKER MATHERS EXPLAINS WHY HE ENTERS RACE.

Members of Legislature Who Were With Him During Last Session Urged It—Enemy of Professional Politics.

Speaker A. N. Mathers, first gubernatorial candidate to toss his hat into the ring, promises a continued warfare on professional politics and the spoils system. Members of the last session of the Nebraska legislature—men who worked with Speaker Mathers, induced him to accept the filing of petitions in his behalf as a candidate at the republican primaries. In connection with his candidacy, Mr. Mathers issues the following signed statement:

"On Wednesday, December 5, my name was filed for the republican nomination for governor. I have reviewed the filing and supporting petitions and deeply appreciate the widespread sentiment thruout Nebraska evidenced by the scores of petitions and personal letters.

"I acknowledge also the expressions and resolutions coming from various members of farm, church, civic and women's organizations. While I understand the Gering American Legion could not and did not in any manner, as an organization, indorse my candidacy, yet to the entire membership who each individually and personally signed a petition recommending my candidacy to all ex-service men thruout the state, I am grateful.

"One year ago next month I was speaker of the Nebraska house of representatives. My associates in the legislature who best know whether I served with the intelligence, honesty and courage of a trustworthy public offical, are the ones who have induced me to accept the filing made in my behalf.

"I shall use every honorable means to be nominated and elected. I am opposed to 'professional politics' and the 'spoils system' in state government.

"In return for the assistance and the co-operation of women and men voters thruout the state, I pledge my best ability and untiring energy.

"As I served as speaker, so if elected shall I serve as governor."

Edward Sailstead

Dorothy Anderson

Dorothy Anderson, once a singer and dancer known in the Chicago dance halls as the "Sunshine Girl," lay on a hospital cot at Napa, Cal., white and thin from tuberculosis, and with her story took District Attorney Thomas C. Anglin back to a night three years ago in the cemetery at Lake Nebagamon, Wis., where, she said, she and her lover, Edward J. Sailstead, robbed a grave so they could run away in peace.

Sailstead is held in jail awaiting the arrival of officers from Wisconsin where he is charged with arson for the supposed burning of a cottage in which he was said to have placed the body of Allen McPhee, a friend.

Miss Anderson denied that they had intended to defraud an insurance company but contended the grisly hoax was carried out only that Sailsted might not leave a trail.

WOMAN IS BURNED IN A HOOCH RAID

CHADRON, Neb., Dec. 9.—Mrs. Arnold Welling of this city is suffering from painful burns sustained yesterday when she attempted to destroy a large amount of alleged home brew by pouring it in the kitchen stove after she had caught sight of officers approaching. Her injuries will not prove fatal.

It is thought Mrs. Welling barred the door when she saw the officers approach from the rear of the building and at once began to destroy the liquor. Her clothing caught on fire from the blazing alcohol just as officers forced an entrance by battering down the door. The flames were immediately extinguished. A number of liquor containers were discovered in the Welling's cellar.

In a raid earlier in the day the officers captured a large quantity of liquor and a copper still at Trussler's livery barn in this city. The raids continued thruout the day with a large measure of success. State Prohibition Officer Wallace Hulbert co-operated with local authorities in the cleanup campaign.

Rev. Ray Hunt of East Orange, N. J., Has Accepted Call to Succeed Dr. H. H. Harmon, Recently Resigned.

Rev. Ray Hunt of East Orange, N. J., has accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Christian church to succeed Dr H H. Harmon who recently resigned. This announcement was made at the evening service at the First Christian church Sunday.

Mr. Hunt was in Lincoln the first of last week. He left the city Tuesday evening to return to his home in East Orange, N J, without giving an answer to the Lincoln church, and wired acceptance Sunday.

Mr. Hunt is a former Nebraska man. He graduated from Cotner college in 1909. His first pastorate was at Trumbull, Neb. From there he went to Duluth, Minn., to remain over three years, and then to Minneapolis, where he stayed about a year and a half until war conditions led him into overseas service with the Y. M. C. A. On returning from France he accepted his present charge at East Orange, where he has been located since 1918. The Park Avenue church, Disciples of Christ at East Orange, of which Mr. Hunt is pastor, has a membership of 700 and many activities.

Sheldon Tefft, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Tefft of Weeping Water, a senior in the law college at the state university, won the Rhodes scholarship for Nebraska, it was announced Sunday. He graduated from the Weeping Water high school in 1918 and got his B A. degree at the state university in 1922. He is twenty-two years old. Mr. Tefft comes from one of the pioneer families of Nebraska. His grandfather was Andrew Tefft, one of the leading men in Cass county in an early day. He is also a nephew of former Governor Sheldon. Mr. Tefft has made excellent grades at the university.

Over twenty made application at the state university. This number was reduced to five by the faculty committee. Mr. Tefft will be entitled to enter Oxford in October, 1924. Nebraska also has a second choice for scholarship at large, to fill one of the several vacancies caused by failure of some of the men from other states to qualify. Raymond D. Wood, son of L. L. Wood, a senior at the University of Nebraska has been selected as candidate for scholarship at large. He will receive his degree in mid-winter and will go to Northwestern where he won a scholarship.

TRAIN LEAVES THE TRACK

Burlington Passenger Runs On Ties—No One Hurt.

DAWSON, Neb., Dec. 9.—Burlington passenger train No. 41, bound for the northwest from Kansas City, jumped the track near a small bridge about one mile west of this place late Saturday afternoon. For some unknown cause the truck wheels of the engine were derailed and the train, which was running about forty five miles per hour, was brought to a stop by the engineer after it had run for several hundred feet on the ties. No damage was done to the train and no passengers were injured but the track was badly torn up, and No 41, together with two eastbound passenger trains and two freight trains sustained a delay of over three hours.

Always Behind Time.

Boston Transcript: "What train does Mr Commuter take to town mornings."

"He takes the one after mine."

"How do you know he takes the train after yours?"

"Because that's the one I take."

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Grain prices started generally lower on the Chicago board of trade today.

Altho opening unchanged to slightly lower, wheat maintained a somewhat firm undertone. Cold weather in the Argentine with some frost damage and a moderate advance in Liverpool following a lower opening served to create the firmness here. Receipts were more liberal at 25 cars.

May corn showed most weakness in the corn downturn. The heavy movement, estimated at 375 cars, and larger world shipments temporarily offsetting the bull news of unfavorable weather over parts of the belt and forecasts for snow and rain today.

Liquidation in the December oats delivery reflected in other months and the opening was generally lower in oats.

Lower hogs and weaker cables caused a sharply lower provisions opening.

Grain Market Opinions.

Clement Curtis & Co: We believe the trend of events point to considerably prices in the near future.

Hulburd W. and Chandler: Corn, oats and rye should sell higher; May corn, much so.

Harris Winthrop & Co.: Primary receipts of wheat last week were 3,250,000 bushels under those of last year.

Bartlett-Frazier & Co.: We see nothing to encourage holders.

Stein Alstrin: Purchases on minor declines seem to offer good opportunities for profits.

Logan & Bryan: The domestic wheat situation is strong and if foreign credit is arranged, a much stronger market would develop. We look for good buying in corn on dips.

Thomson McKinnon: No particular action is indicated in wheat until more is heard from congress. It is questionable whether enough corn will arrive to make profitable deliveries on December contracts.

Riordan & Martin: Wheat looks like a trading market for quick turns. We favor buying corn on any dip.

J. M. Simpson: There may be a further temporary setback in wheat and corn but on the depressions I think purchases will bring fair trading profits. There is more interest being shown in oats and the situation looks strong.—Lamson.

Chicago Tribune Report.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—A good many corn traders believe prices are too high and are selling on the rallies.

An active domestic and export demand for meats and lard offsets a heavy movement of live stock. The hog movement last week was the largest on record.—Lamson.

Herald-Examiner Report.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—The supply and demand situation in this country seems more closely adjusted than for several months. Shipments of wheat to primary markets are falling off, and should this condition continue the visible supply would gradually be reduced. It is quite possible that wheat will be shipped to Germany for relief of the hungry.—Lamson.

Journal of Commerce Report.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Rye which is selling at unusual discount under wheat is regarded as good investment. Receipts are diminishing, the visible supply is decreasing and the possibility exists that foreign necessities will bring forth a call for rye that will absorb every bushel available.—Lamson.

Holiday in Buenos Aires.

Heavy rains in parts of Argentine and freezing weather in other sections of wheat belt, very unfavorable for crop. Broomhall.—Lamson.

Omaha Livestock Market.

OMAHA, Dec. 10.—Cattle—Receipts, 15,000. Monday's run of cattle was made up very largely of corn-feds, and while both shippers and packers picked up desirable yearlings and handyweight steers at fully steady prices they were indifferent and bearish when it cames to the plain heavy and unfinished steers, bidding in some cases as much as 10@25c lower than last week's close. Sales around $10 and above were not plentiful. Cow stuff was not far from steady and the same was true of stockers and feeders, best of the latter selling up around $7.75@8.85. Representative sales of beef steers:

No.	Av.	Price	No.	Av.	Price
19	1123	$9.00	43	967	$9.35
21	1106	11.50

Hogs—Receipts, 14,000. Movement to shippers during the early hours this morning was of very small proportion with prices on the few hogs that did move in this direction looking 15c to possibly 25c lower than Saturday. Lower markets at outside points made packers also slow in acting and up to a rather late hour nothing of consequence had found this outlet with buyers bidding 25c lower. Bulk of sales was at $6.20@6.60, with early top at $6.65 and some held higher. Representative sales of hogs:

No.	Av.	Price.	No.	Av.	Price
44	334	$6.30	69	234	$6.30
63	266	6.35	50	365	6.45
48	310	6.45	43	406	6.50
82	179	6.50	70	193	6.50
63	275	6.60	54	285	6.50
70	259	6.65	58	303	6.65
68	207	6.70

Sheep—Receipts, 11,000. The killer lamb trade was fairly active all around this morning. Shippers were in the market on a small scale and furnished some competition with movement, after started, rated at prices that ranged steady to 20c higher than the close of last week. Only a few feeders were included in the day's supply and the stuff at hand cleared at around steady figures.

OMAHA, Dec. 10.—Cattle—Receipts, 15,000; market, 10@25c lower; yearlings, $7.00@12.25; steers, $6.50@12.75; cows and heifers, $2.25@9.00; stockers and feeders, $4.00@7.90; calves, $3.00@9.50; bulls and stags, $3.25@5.75; western rangers, $4.25@8.00.

Hogs—Receipts, 14,000; market, shippers 15@25c lower, packers dull; bulk, $6.20@6.60; top, $6.65.

Sheep—Receipts, 11,000; market, steady; yearlings, $8.00@10.75; wethers, $6.00@8.00; lambs, $11.00@13.50; ewes, $4.25@6.75.

Stock Market Opinions.

Stein Alstrin: We advise accumulation of good Steel, Auto and Oil stocks.

Harris Winthrop: We look for continued activity and rising prices.

Clark Childs: So Pac and Industrial Alcohol look very attractive around these prices.

Logan & Bryan: We anticipate a renewal of advancing prices.

Thomson McKinnon: Stocks should be bought on all reactions.

Jenks Gwynne: We favor taking advantage of bulges to accept profits.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Developments over the week-end cast little new light on the stock market situation and prices opened influenced by the same factors which governed last week's fluctuations.

Such a remarkable reversal as Delaware & Hudson's $1,630,000 surplus in the September quarter against a deficit of $1,-957,000 in the corresponding period last year directed speculative attention toward the dividend-paying rails and this class of stocks led the whole list in the early dealings.

Atchison gained a full point to 95¼, and good advances were scored by New York Central, Reading and other representative issues.

Opening prices: Sinclair 23½; Pan-American "B" 58¼, off ¼; Anaconda 38⅝, up ⅝; American Can 103⅞, up ⅝; U. S. A Baron Sells Papers.

Detroit News: Kings have been known to beg alms, emperors to saw wood, princes to stack wheat, and lords to dig trenches. But who ever heard of a baron selling newspapers for a living? There is one who lays claim to this distinction and who is doing it in Toronto, Canada.

Baron Guillame Robert Hearsey de la Blacquier is his name, he says, and he may be found most any time of day dispensing his wares from the Naval Veterans' news stand.

To his patrons he is just plain "Teddy," a jovial faced little old chap with spectacles and a Van Dyke beard, who displays the service ribbons of an Indian campaign, the South African war, and the great war on the bosom of a discarded pea-jacket. He struts back and forth in front of his flag-surmounted stand with an unmistakable sea-goin' gait, topped off by a bearing that is strictly military.

Chief Petty Officer William Robert Hearsey, R. N. R., R. N. C. V. R.—he prefers this official title rather than that of baron—was born and bred in luxury in London, England. He came into his title by being the only direct male descendant of his mother's grandfather, who was Baron Guillame Robert Hearsey de la Blacquier III, with a large and valuable estate in Lille, France.

Hearsey started his career by studying medicine at Cambridge university. "But the pull became too great for me to resist," he declared, reminiscently. "My forefathers had been soldiers and sailors before me. The blood was in my veins. There came a day when I couldn't hold out against it any longer. So I chucked medicine to the winds and signed on with the East Kent Buffs."

He was in New Zealand when the South African war broke out and rather than return to his own regiment in the old country he obtained a commission with the New Zealand "Mounties."

The wanderlust was firmly embedded in him by then and, hopelessly estranged with his family, he gave way to a desire he always had for the sea and took a berth on the royal yacht, Ophir, which was just starting out on a round-the-world cruise with his majesty, King George V, who was at that time the duke of York.

"I came to Canada the year the great war started, landed May 1, 1914, firmly resolved to find something worth while to do and settle down for the rest of my days. But when the boys started going overseas it was too much for me," be said.

"I joined the seventy-fifth battalion in 1915. But they said I was too old for a combatant and after eight months gave me my discharge. My old fighting blood was stirred by then, tho, so I turned around and enlisted again, this time with the forty-eighth. Again I was discharged, but while there was life there was hope, so in 1917 I got on with the 220th as officers' chef—only to be left behind again.

"I decided to chuck the army for good and all then and to get even landed a berth on a mine sweeper with the R. N. C. V. R. I got my discharge in April, 1918, and luck has been more or less against me ever since. I'm sick and tired of hospitals, and, altho I have so many ailments I can scarcely remember their names, I'll not go back to one unless they carry me."

What You Like to Do.

By Sophie Irene Loeb.

An old man made his will the other day and as he did so, he turned to some of his friends saying, "There is one satisfaction that I have now. It is that I have left to others the fruit of the work that I did not want to do."

It seems that as a young man he started out in a business that was not pleasing to him, yet somehow he had not the courage to change. He continued in this enterprise, always looking forward to the day when he could go into that which he wanted to do most, which was entirely different from the work at which he was earning his livlihood.

"At various times," he said, "I could have made the change but I was afraid. I wanted to build houses from the time I was a child and made them out of blocks. It seemed to me that the joy of creating beautiful homes was like no other. It was born in me I guess, that desire, but a friend of my father's took me as an apprentice in a commercial proposition that kept me in the office.

"I seemed to be 'doing well' and so I feared to make the change. Rarely have I passed a lumber yard or a beautiful house that I did not stop and think how I could make things and how I could improve them. An even now when I have my own house I had to leave it to others to build because I was too tired and worn out.

"Yes, I am called a successful man, but I am a sad man and I wish I had it all to do over again. Whether I made much money or not I would liked to have had the feeling of doing what I really wanted so much to do."

How many men do you hear saying, "I don't want my son to go thru what I did," and many such men try to arrange for their children a different existance, spending their all to do it—perhaps more education, more opportunity, only because of the drudgery and misery thru which they had to pass in doing things they did not like to do.

I have a friend who is one of the best known lawyers and yet his heart hungers for his violin which he loved to play and left in order to enter the legal profession. In truth, he rarely takes it up because of the sorrow and remorse it gives him.

After all is said and done, when you stop to consider that your work occupies the larger portion of your time, morning noon and night, how important it is to chose that which you love to do, and how difficult and tiresome and unhappy it is to go thru labor that is distasteful when there is so much work in the world from which to choose.

The worst thing for a person to do is to go thru life in an occupation which he dislikes and which he does only for the sake of making a living. Far better to go hungry a little and do that which you love.

In the end more happiness, more joy will come. The big thing is to find out what it is you really want to do most and then do nothing else but that for your daily business.

Use Fish as Money.

Popular Mechanics: Fish are used as money along the Labrador coast where there are no stores, according to reports, and traders accept the finny exchange in payment for their wares.

Currency almost is useless, for the residents prefer to be paid in food and clothing for their services. The last fishing season was unusually poor, because the schools of fish which have regularly furnished the chief means of livelihood to the natives, deserted the waters along those shores. In order to relieve the conditions, a paper mill that will give employment to many persons is being planned, and fishermen are raising goats to provide necessary food elements lacking in the usual diet of fish, white bread and tea.

Are You a Waster?

By Ruth Leigh.

"Just a minute," said a young stenographer in an insurance office. "I'll make a note of that and tell Mr.—— when he comes in."

I watched her hastily snatch a letterhead—an engraved letterhead—from the desk and scrawl a penciled memorandum on it. Then, as I stood waiting for someone else, I watched this young stenographer sit down before her typewriter, tap out a few words, and then with an expression of petulance at a mistake, snatch out the letterhead and carbon copy, crush them up in one hand and throw them in the basket.

If I had known her better I should have liked to call to her attention her wanton waste of office supplies, to remind her that she was really stealing. Of course, she would have resented that if I had told her; probably she prided herself on being honest, yet careless waste of supplies amounts to stealing.

Just think of the carelessness of any stenographer who deliberately scrawls a memorandum on an expensive engraved letterhead. Consider the laziness of one who prefers to crush a costly letterhead and a piece of second sheet, rather than use an eraser.

This is waste, pure and simple, and indirect dishonesty. If you are employed by a concern to do your work, you automatically obligate yourself to be economical with its supplies. A great many young women in offices think: "Oh, well, I don't have to pay for the paper. I should worry about wasting a few sheets." I wonder however, how some of these office folk would feel if they invited guests to dinner, and the latter deliberately soiled table linen or spilled things on rugs, just because they don't have to pay for cleaning. The analogy is the same.'

When you work in an office or store, girls, it is only good business judgment to treat the supplies and equipment of that concern as if they were your own, to conserve in every way possible. Indirectly waste on your part hurts your salary, because when a firm finds expenses mounting—and if you know anything about printing paper, you will know why letterheads are costly—the chances of salary increases grow less.

Be considerate of your firm's equipment, be economical with its paper, pencils, erasers. Have some consideration for the bills that others must pay. This is a form of business courtesy, to say nothing of being an evidence of your efficiency.

A concrete plan for relief of the wheat situation was adopted at a meeting by Oregon farmers.

Conrad's Best Christmas.

The Delineator: The daybreak of Christmas day in the year 1879 was fine. The sun began to shine some time about four o'clock over the somber expanse of the southern ocean in latitude fifty-one; and shortly afterward a sail was sighted ahead. The wind was light, but a heavy swell was running. Presently I wished a Merry Christmas to my captain. He looked still sleepy but amiable. I reported the distant sail to him and ventured the opinion that there was something wrong with her. He said "Wrong?" in an incredulous tone. He took the glasses from me, directed them toward her stripped masts, resembling three Swedish safety-matches flying up and down and wagging to and fro ridiculously in that heaving and austere wilderness of countless water hills, and returned them to me without a word. He only yawned. This marked display of callousness gave me a shock. In those days I was generally inexperienced and still a comparative stranger in that particular region of the world of waters.

The captain, as is a captain's way, disappeared from the deck; and after a time our carpenter came up the poop ladder carrying an empty small wooden keg of the sort in which certain ship's provisions are packed. I said, surprised, "What do you mean by lugging this thing up here, Chips?" "Captain's orders, sir," he explained shortly. I did not like to question him further and so we only exchanged Christmas greetings and he went away. The next person to speak to me was the steward. He came running up the companion stairs: "Have you any old newspapers in your room, sir?" There were several old Sydney Heralds, Telegraphs, Bulletins in my cabin, besides a few home papers received by the last mail. "Why do you ask steward?" I inquired naturally. "The captain would like to have them," he said.

And even then I did not understand the inwardness of the eccentricities. I was only lost in astonishment at them. It was eight o'clock before we had closed with that ship which, under her short canvas and heading nowhere in particular, seemed to be loafing aimlessly on the very threshold of the gloomy home of storms. But long before that hour I had learned from the number of the boats she carried that this nonchalant ship was a whaler. She was the first whaler I had ever seen. She had hoisted the Stars and Stripes at her peak and her signal-flags had told us already that she was the Alaska. Two years out from New Bedford. Last from Honolulu. Two hundred and fifteen days on the cruising-ground. We passed, sailing slowly, within a hundred yards of her; and just as our steward started ringing the breakfast bell, the captain and I held up aloft in good view of the figures watching us over her stern, the keg properly headed up and containing besides an enormous bundle of old newspapers, two boxes of figs in honor of the day. We flung it far over the rail. Instantly our ship sliding down the slope of a high swell left it far behind in our wake. On board the Alaska a man in a fur cap flourished an arm; another a much bewhiskered person, ran forward suddenly. I never saw anything so ready and smart as the way that whaler, rolling desperately all the time, lowered one of her boats. The southern ocean went on tossing the two ships like a juggler his gilt balls and the microscopic white speck of the boat seemed to come into the game instantly, as if shot out from a catapult, on the enormous and lonely stage. That Yankee whaler lost not a moment in picking up her Christmas present from the English wool-clipper. Before we had increased the distance very much she dipped her ensign in thanks and asked to be reported all well, with a catch of three fish. I suppose it paid them for two hundred and fifteen days of risk and toil away from the sounds and sights of the inhabited world, like outcasts devoted beyond the confines of mankind's life to some enchanted and lonely penance.

Precautionary.

Kansas City Star: The young wife sought out her mother and exclaimed tearfully: "Mother, I have discovered that Harold does not love me."

"Why, child, what has happened?" asked the mother, alarmed.

"Well, you know, I cooked my first dinner for him last night, and he invited a friend to dine with us."

"And who was the friend?"

"A doctor!"

MEN AND THINGS

There is a lot of unconscious hypocrisy about most of our complaints about the high costs of living. The fact is that as we get a little more prosperous we quit scraping and skimping, and are more liberal in our expenditures, demanding styles and novelties that cost money in so far as our apparel is concerned. The bakers supply most of the bread and cakes consumed, and the canners not only furnish the bulk of the tinned fruits and vegetables, but a recent bulletin of the national association says they are furnishing the bulk of the jellies, jams and preserves. We also insist on buying package goods rather than bulk.

What's the sense of the members of congress throwing several thousand new bills into the legislative hopper each year, usually at the opening. Every one of these bills must be printed at public expense, altho only a very small proportion of them, if we except the private pension bills—a scandal in themselves quite often because many of them are to put men on the pension list whose conduct or record barred them from a place thereon—are ever considered. The old explanation that this was to please the people at home no longer explains because the people are not pleased over it. A considerable percentage is represented in the desire to make their constituents think they amount to something or are doing something worth while.

The father and son movement in Omaha has taken on an unusual phase. When two men were arrested the other day for engaging in a holdup it was found that one was the stepfather of the other. Nice sort of life they must have led for the wife and mother! Nice sort of thing anyway for a father to lead his son into crime, or vice versa! It has been said oftimes before, but it is a phrase worth repetition in this case, where is the world coming to when fathers and sons start out together to rob honest and industrious citizens?

Communism and socialism have a great vogue in Europe because they seem to offer to the poor, who are many, the only opportunity or rather hope for a betterment of their condition. They have no stake in the country because they have never got enough wages to make it possible. The chief reason why the federation of labor voted down by so large a majority the communistic element in the late national convention is that good wages have made it possible for labor to own banks, real estate, dividend producing stocks and the like. Having those they are not likely to join anybody in trying to burn the country down.

The dramatic individual who led the oratorical battle in the federation of labor for a communistic policy declared, when defeated, and as he left the room, "We will meet you at the barricades." If you remember your history of the French revolution you will understand the allusion. It was a threat of violence, but an idle one. Conditions in France that made the revolution there possible are not duplicated in this country, and under a democracy functioning freely they cannot be created. Orators are often the victims of their fine phrases.

The number of robberies in which the bandits get but small amounts is increasing, and it is reasonable to suppose that if the loot at each effort continues to be small we will have a real crime wave. A robber, it is fair to presume, has his idea as to how much of an income he ought to earn at his profession. If he is balked in making a cleanup that would satisfy him for a month, he is quite likely to have to start out again the next night. If he made a good, big haul he is likely to hole up for a considerable time. People with property ought to take this feature of the business into consideration when closing their safes for the night.

When Judge Cornish was district judge and it came to the time when convicted criminals stood before him for sentence, he was wont to tell them, the first thing, that they were fools, that no man has yet devised a way to make profit out of crime, that it has not paid even those who apparently lived by their wits, and that the young man particularly was a fool who took up this life. He was right. Experience has proved this to the satisfaction of sensible men.

ABE MARTIN

Ther's an' excuse fer most ever'thing 'cept bein' lured t' a lonely spot. Where's all th' empty store rooms an' all th' empty jails we wuz goin' t' have on account o' prohibition?

SWEETIES

They're engaged, so it's perfectly proper and all that—but what we want to know is, what are their names? They are from Galveston, and that's that. Trace the lines leading from the letters in GALVESTON to the empty squares, and then put the proper letter in each empty square, and you will have the names of the two.

Answer to Saturday's puzzle: PELEG, CECIL and PETER

BRAIN TESTS

(By Sam Loyd.)

5 Minutes to Answer This.

Take the woodland, substract an abbreviated male name, add a storehouse, substract a horizontal fence-rail, add that which is solid and firm in substance, add a series of things drawn along, substract condensed vapor and the resulting letters will spell the name of a beloved European actress.

Answer to Yesterday's.

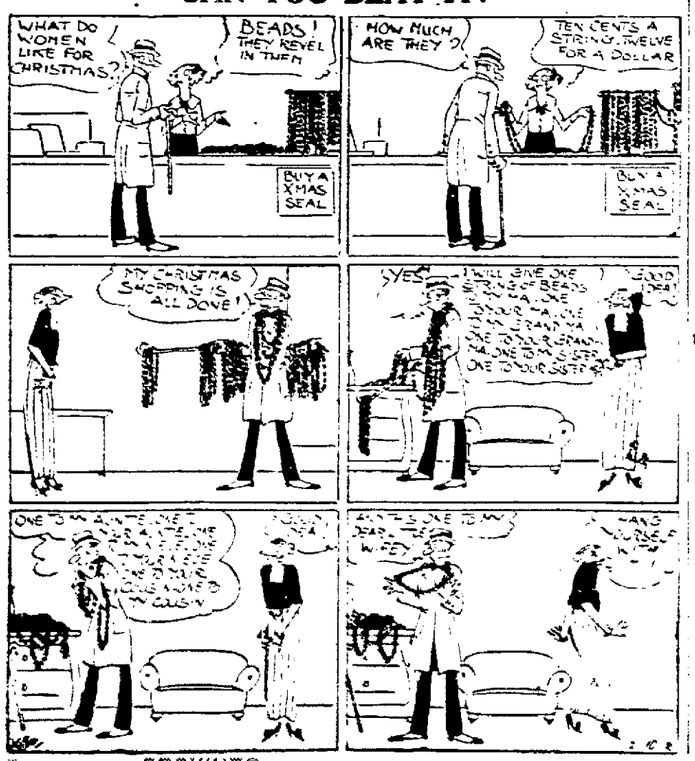

The word BRIDESMAID.

The young lady across the way says for alienation of affection are becoming altogether to common and at the first suspicion that a man is an alienist he ought not to be admitted to the house.
